

Fire service may lure area to annex

By HARRY BARNES
Press-Record Staff Writer
A move by Granite City to annex the Benjamin Addition, an area of approximately five acres and 125 homes just outside the northwest city limits, will be initiated immediately by city officials as the result of a meeting Tuesday night in which residents and property owners discussed the pros and cons of such action.

Mayor Paul Schuler, who served as chairman of the meeting in the council chambers at the city hall, said a door-to-door canvass of the residential area will be made by city personnel to obtain signatures on petitions necessary to the first steps in annexing the area.

His announcement followed a two-hour discussion in which city and township officials outlined potential tax costs to residents who come into the city and the services that would be extended to a newly-annexed territory.

More than 60 persons attended the session, many of them questioning city officials particularly about fire protection, but also about other city services such as trash collection, police protection, street maintenance and street lighting.

While no specific objections were expressed, some residents appeared doubtful about how much their tax bills might increase if they should come into the city.

Mayor Schuler told the group at the beginning of the meeting that Granite City is interested in annexing any new territory, but that "we don't want to force anyone into the city against his will."

Von Dee Cruse, Granite City Township assessor, told the residents that they could compute the potential tax upon becoming part of the city by applying the city tax rate ($1.359 per $100 assessed valuation last year) against the assessment of their homes.

On this basis, he said, a home valued at $12,000 (assessed at $4,000 on a 33 1/3 per cent ratio) would cost the home owner from $55 to $60 a year in additional taxes. Citing the city services residents would receive as residents of Granite City—including fire and police protection—Cruse said, "I sincerely believe it would be to your advantage to annex to the city."

Granite City Fire Chief Don Parente responded to several questions as to why fire protection to the Benjamin Addition was cut off several years ago, noting that fire service outside the city was halted by city ordinance after a fireman was injured and equipment was damaged during a fire outside the city and the matter of liability coverage became a question.

(1915-17), Edward Hagnauer (1945-46), Dr. John E. Lee Sr. (1911-15) and 1917-44, Dr. John E. Lee Jr. (1957-73), William M. Ebersold (1974 to the present), Frank Reidelberger Sr. (1953-56) and Harry T. Hartman (1947-53). More pictures are to be added. Village Board presidents from the time Venice was created in 1873 were Henry Robinson, Francis McCambridge, Theodore Selb, Thomas McFee and Brammell. City mayors have included Dr. J. W. Scott (1899-1911), Arthur Schmitt (1944-45 and 1946-47), Leo Devany (1956-57) and Lloyd H. Patterson (1973-74).

Voice give you away? Not in Illinois

Does your voice give you away? Will it sound as if you're lying? Not in this state.

Attorney General William J. Scott ruled Tuesday that a voice-recording device, the Psychological Stress Evaluator, cannot lawfully be used.

The PSE is purported to uncover deceptions by measuring the stress values of a voice recorded on magnetic tape. It's often represented as a form of lie detector.

Scott based his opinion, in part, on a Detection of Deception Examiners Act which requires that each examiner use an instrument which, at the minimum, measures cardiovascular and respiratory patterns. The PSE measures only voice quality.

The attorney general also noted that anyone holding himself forth to the public as an examiner in Detection of Deception must be licensed by the state.

Granite City municipal officials have indicated that sewage treatment charges to Madison County Special Service Area One (Chouteau-Nameoki-Venice Townships) sanitary sewer installation) will be reasonable. Details remaining to be worked out include the specific collection procedure.

Once such arrangements have been agreed upon by city and county committees and governing bodies, it is anticipated that the net cost for treatment will be comparable to that paid by others using the city's regional primary-secondary treatment plant at the Granite City Army Installation.

No negative votes on port facility

The Illinois Senate on Wednesday passed two bills to allow a dry bulk handling facility at the Tri-City Regional Port District. The measures were sponsored by Sen. Sam Valabrese (Edwardsville Democrat).

Senate Bill 1734 would amend the $2,750,000 appropriation passed by the legislature last year and signed by Governor Daniel Walker. The amendment clarifies repayment provisions of the original appropriation.

The Tri-City Port will repay the sum to the state from 20 per cent of the gross receipts derived from use of the facility. Senate Bill 1735 would amend the Capital Development Board Act to reflect that state appropriations for cargo handling facilities, constructed by the Tri-City Regional Port District, will be repaid to the state from 20 per cent of the gross receipts of those facilities.

The Capital Development Board is to be responsible for constructing the bulk facility here.

The measures now go to the Illinois House of Representatives. If they are approved, the Tri-City Port project can be placed under construction this summer, officials believe.

Weather outlook for this region

Self-government here from start

35th of a Bicentennial year Press-Record series
The Niedringhaus family, founders of Granite City, studied the Pullman conflict occurring in July 1894 but had already taken steps to avoid the same pattern here.

The Pullman Company owned every home and business in the town of Pullman, Ill., while, locally, care had been taken to assure industrial diversification and also to set the stage for "home rule" and self-government by Granite City residents.

By 1867 George Pullman had established himself as one of Chicago's most promising businessmen.

The Pullman Palace Car Co. was incorporated in Illinois, and additional plants were built from coast to coast.

Pullman made railroad cars on contract for the railroad—including restaurant cars, dining cars and chair cars. But he never sold his lavish sleeping cars. The company operated those itself, and the railroad simply pulled them around the country.

During the years, it became obvious to Pullman that he needed more manufacturing facilities.

He hoped to free his business from "unpredictable labor troubles" by building a town which provided a decent place to live, which attracted workmen, and which would insulate his employees from "corrupting influences."

"With crime steadily increasing as America celebrates its 200th birthday, people have a fear of what is going to happen in the next 200 years," William O. Brey, chief of the law enforcement department of the Illinois Department of Conservation, told a gathering of about 200 attending the annual

Law and Order Banquet Monday night at Charlie's Restaurant.

The annual event is hosted by Granite City Elks Lodge 1063 and honors Quad-City area law enforcement officers.

"The police are the only agency you can depend on seven days a week, 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. People don't realize you're there everyday—around the clock," Brey commented.

"These people you are honoring tonight are there 24 hours per day, as close as your telephone. Not because they like it. Because they love it," he added.

He said law enforcement is very important in America today, and noted "One of every five of you probably will be the victim of a major crime in the next year.

"While we have been here during the last two and a half hours, on the average, five people have been murdered. There has been a rape every 14 minutes, an assault every 90 seconds, an armed robbery every 91 seconds and a burglary

Optimists support courts and police

"Respect for Law Week" celebrated by Optimist International, was highlighted locally last week with an address by Circuit Judge Moses Harrison of the Third Judicial Circuit and a special presentation by Cub Scout Mike Salem, with area chiefs of police, leaders of local law enforcement Explorer Posts and Optimists wives as guests.

Cub Scout Mike Salem, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Salem, read to the group his hopes for America, which he wrote in connection with the Cub Scout theme of the month.

Young Mike's hopes for America, in his words, are: "Peace and no atomic bombs. To have clean water, no more wars, no pollution, people would help each other, more people would go to church, prices would go down in stores, people would not lose their jobs."

Judge Harrison outlined the judicial system, which despite some weaknesses, is believed by the judge and optimists to be the finest in any country in the world.

Masque & Gavel initiates tonight

Thirteen students of Granite City High School, North will be initiated tonight at 7:30 into the Masque and Gavel national high school recognition society for the promotion of justice in the North-Central area.

The initiates are John W. Buschhoff, Gay Bowler, Debra S. Carmichael, Jack Dempsey, Curtis Morrison, Edward S. Sade, Antonette Samunda, Elizabeth A. Sade, Kathryn L. Howard, Dawn Marie

Optimist Leo Konzen, program chairman, called attention to the fact that three of the four local police departments sponsor Explorer posts for young adults interested in careers in law enforcement.

Konzen then introduced J. Richard Hooks, counselor at the Madison Coordinated Youth Services office and adviser to Explorer Post 104. Hooks has been associated with the law enforcement Explorer Post since it began in this area seven years ago.

Optimist President David Brooks explained the reason for observance of "Respect for Law Week."

Crime and its effects upon the lives and property of citizens seems undiminished despite efforts of government, citizens' organizations and many individuals, Brooks said.

"There still is a reluctance on the part of many citizens to involve themselves in actions to insure the protection, rights and well-being of fellow citizens," he said.

Optimists clubs and their members continue to support programs aimed at combating crime and disrespect for the law. By example, we hope to exercise responsible citizenship," Brooks concluded.

Moskoff, Patricia Verschyl, Dawn E. Walker and Cynthia Ann White.

The objectives of the group are to recognize and promote significant student achievement in any area of speech in the high school, to assist the student in raising his standards of speech by providing services of analysis and advice, ideas and awards to encourage improvement in all forms of oral expression, and to sponsor a better relationship between the high school and the community.

The initiation ceremony will be conducted by the officers and members.

The ceremony will be the original candle ceremony as written by the students of Miss Mary Blackburn, one of the founders of Masque and Gavel, and former speech teacher at Granite City.

Lawrence Bax, vice-president, will serve as master of ceremonies and Linda K. Parsh, secretary, will serve as mistress of ceremonies.

F. Gordon Mueller, speech teacher at North, will show movies of the last Masque and Gavel initiation ceremony and the major theater productions of the school.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE at the Optimist Law Day program last week was led by Cub Scout Mike Salem. Granite City Police Chief Ronald Veizer, a guest of the Optimist Club program, stands behind Mike.

Foster homes needed in area

The Illinois Department of Children and Family Services is initiating a recruitment campaign in Madison County to find foster parents for adolescent children who, for one reason or another, are unable to live with their natural families.

The department currently is facing a critical shortage of foster homes, since an insufficient number of Madison County residents applied to meet the needs of children in situations requiring foster placement.

The main requirements for foster parents are flexibility, concern, patience, and understanding, according to Al Schebera, resource development worker, Department of Children and Family Services.

Foster parents may be couples or individuals. They must be 21, but other than this requirement they may be from almost any age group.

Some children will stay with their foster parents for relatively short periods. Others may stay until they are able to return to their own families or until they enter another permanent living situation, such as adoption — another program offered by the department.

In any case, the Department of Children and Family Services pays foster parents a fee for each child. The fee will vary with the age and needs of the foster child, and is intended to cover the child's board, clothing and incidental expenses.

Medical and dental expenses incurred by foster children are paid separately by the state. Residents of Madison County interested in becoming foster parents or volunteers may contact Schebera at 876-8865. Prospective foster parents will be invited to attend a group meeting of applicants. Before becoming a foster parent, a person must be licensed.

The licensing process consists primarily of attendance at a group meeting, a series of home interviews with an agency social worker, a medical examination, good references from persons listed on the foster parent application, and attendance at a series of training sessions.

Treatment

 Hearings are scheduled for 9 a.m. this Saturday on Area Two and 11 a.m. the same day for Area Three.

The public hearing on Area One is to be held at 9 a.m. Saturday, May 22.

All the hearings will be conducted in Courtroom No. 3 at the Madison County Courthouse in Downtown Edwardsville.

Sanitary sewer service has been lacking in unincorporated areas of the Quad-Cities, and various groups and officials have been active over a period of years to arrange for the design and construction.

Most easements needed for the affected property owners, indicating widespread interest in obtaining the sewer service, the special sewer committee of the Madison County Board has reported.

Obtaining of remaining easements, primarily in Nameoki Township, is being coordinated through the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce office, 1831 Delmar Ave., telephone 876-6400.

Waterproof sewers have been designed to avoid the types of problems encountered with sewer lines when the underground water table rises, such as in 1973.

Particularly when the ground is saturated, septic tanks and cesspools are regarded as working ineffectively. There has been an increasing regional-state-federal pattern of requiring sanitary sewers in areas where home loans are sought or where new construction is proposed.

Because of the increasingly essential nature of sanitary sewers, ways were sought to make them affordable for Quad-Cityans still lacking such service.

The 75-25 financing plan was developed and has been approved by the state and federal governments if the project proceeds on schedule.

Because the potential interest rate will have a major effect on the cost of the project, attention has been given by the committee to a Galesburg bond issue obtained under the same enabling act that is to be utilized here.

A clarification issued this week by Harry E. Hartman, sewer attorney, relates that "the City of Galesburg Special Service Area Project is no sewer installation but a shopping mall, the Carl Sandburg Mall. The program is for improvements including parking, decorative lights, benches and brick paving."

Under the relatively new state law that is being utilized in Madison County, it has been ruled necessary to proceed with three special service areas in order to make each one fully contiguous.

No referendum is necessary, the committee instead making their wishes known at the hearings and also by acceptance of the proposal. Negative actions would involve 51 per cent resident and property owner petition action.

The cost for the day is $3.50 which includes transportation, drinks and a patch. The girls will have an opportunity to swim, canoe, hike, and take a hayride tour of the camp. More information may be obtained at the Girl Scout office in Glen Carbon, 288-7286.

Vocal concert Tuesday at South

The Granite City High School South Vocal Department will present a spring concert on Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the South High auditorium. Admission is 35 cents.

The Advanced Mixed Chorus, Madrigals, Girl's Glee, Boy's Chorus, Sixth Hour Mixed Chorus and Contests groups will be performing a wide variety of music, including several Bicentennial numbers.

A special feature of this year's concert is original material composed by members of the vocal department.

Patriotic musical at Third Baptist

A patriotic musical called "In God We Trust" will be performed at the Third Baptist Church, 2601 Grand Ave., at 6:30 p.m. Sunday, The Winds, a young adult singing group, sang portions of "In God We Trust" in Dow, Pinckneyville, Wood River, Collinsville and St. Louis. They are scheduled for presentations Monday, May 17, before the Church Bowling League banquet at the Kooinoon Center, 24th Street and Madison Avenue, and on Thursday, May 20, before the Senior Citizen Bowling League banquet at St. John's United Church of Christ.

Written by Otis Killings, "In God We Trust," includes such songs as "I Am Thankful to Be an American," "People Everywhere Need People," "There's Only One Solution," and "The Heart of America." Enhancing the musical will be a taped orchestral accompaniment, special lighting and nearly 200 slides showing scenes of America.

The Winds are made up of first soprano Donna Millikin and Colleen Fitzgerald; second soprano Diana Hall and Karen Cline; alto Diane Simon; tenor Steve Hall, Steve Johnson and Randy Millikin; basses John Nading, Ken Simon and Nick Popichak. The sound and lighting technicians are Bonnie Nading and Brian Smith.

Roy Johnson, pastor, and John Nading, minister of music, have invited the public to attend.

State Senator Sam M. Vadalabene (D-Edwardsville) will be the speaker at the first annual fund-raising awards banquet of Explorer Post 255 to be held at 6 p.m. Sunday in the Long Lake Fire Hall, 4113 Pontoon Road. The Explorer Post is sponsored by the Pontoon Beach Police Department.

The purpose of the banquet is two-fold, according to Donald D. Patrick, adviser to Post 255. "We want to thank those who have helped the Explorers get started in Pontoon Beach and to recognize Vadalabene "for unselfish distinguished service and continuing interest in improving public education in Illinois." The state educators referred to him as "The History Maker."

raise money for the Explorer activities."

Patrick, who also is head of Pontoon Beach Coordinated Youth Services, will act as master-of-ceremonies at the dinner.

Sen. Vadalabene will be introduced by W. F. "Mick" Strange, vice-president of the Cahokia Mounds Council for Exploring. In addition to introducing the speaker Strange is listed on the program for "Strange Comments."

Pontoon Beach Chief of Police Roswell Bennett Jr., Explorer President James A. Laughlin and Patrick will present the awards of appreciation.

Floyd D. Moss, president of the Pontoon Beach Village Board, will give the welcome, with Rev. William Roddy, pastor of the First Church of the Nazarene, giving the invocation.

Highlight of the evening will be the presentation of the first "Pontoon Beach Citizen of the Year" award. Laughlin said, "This special award is designed to create what you might call a 'Hall of Fame' of Pontoon Beach citizens that have given real service to the community."

Candidates for the award were selected by the Explorer banquet committee by questioning the general public.

We are not considering current public officeholders."

Raymond L. Gaudette Jr., chairman of the Police Committee for the Village of Pontoon Beach, will make closing comments.

Girls charged with alcohol possession

Two girls from Cottage Hills were taken into custody by officers this week on Nameoki Road at East 26th Street. Both were charged with being minors in possession of alcohol and the driver of the auto, Jessie L. Brazzell, 17, also was charged with having an improper muffler on the vehicle.

A police officer saw the Brazzell auto southbound on Nameoki Road with the horn honking. At Nameoki Road and Victory Drive, he alleged seeing the driver take a drink from a quart bottle while halted at a signal light and he stopped the vehicle upon hearing the loud muffler. The driver allegedly had two driver's licenses in her possession and initially gave the officer the wrong license, bearing the age of an older person.

The passenger, Kim A. Dille, 17, of Cottage Hills, when asked for identification became abusive, along with the driver. Both refused to accompany the officer to police headquarters. Backup officers were called after one girl started to move away from the car, police said.

Nameoki rejects action on plea to eliminate part of police unit area

A request that Precinct Five of Nameoki Township be eliminated from a three-precinct police protection plan being considered by Nameoki town officials was rejected by the Town Board during a regular meeting Monday night.

Mrs. Helen Hawkins, Democratic committeewoman of Precinct Five, informed the board that she wished to submit a petition asking that her precinct be taken out of the proposed police unit area, but she was told by Supervisor Louis Whitwell that the action was out of order.

Whitwell said that such petition should be filed with Sheriff John Maeras. Volunteer police officers serving in township police units are assigned by Sheriff Maeras as "supervisors of safety."

Mrs. Hawkins said that people in her precinct generally are of the opinion that they are served satisfactorily now by deputies of the sheriff's department at Edwardsville.

The Town Board has budgeted $8,500 to provide a car and other equipment for the proposed police unit, but would save residents of Precincts Three, Five and 11 in Nameoki Township. The unit is expected to become operative immediately after approval of the new 1976-77 town budget, scheduled in the May 24 Town Board meeting.

The board Monday night also approved a plan to employ 25 youths through the Coordinated Youth Services for a cleanup program in all parts of the township. The township will be required to provide transportation and supervision. The plan will be coordinated through the Pontoon Beach office of the CYS at which Donald Patrick is the coordinator.

Whitwell also presented a letter received from Walter Sparks, supervisor of Chouteau Township and chairman of the four-township sewer program for unincorporated areas of Venice, Nameoki and Chouteau townships, urging all County Board members to attend hearings that are to be held Saturday and on Sunday, May 22, on details of the proposed sewer plan in three separate areas.

The board approved a resolution appointing Robert Allen as a trustee of the Miracle Manor-Bellemeore Street Lighting District. Douglas Teeter, town clerk, administered the oath to Allen and to Lawrence Robinson as a trustee of the State Park Place Street Lighting District. Robinson was appointed in an earlier meeting.

Bills of $2,480 in the town fund and $2,174 in the general assistance fund were approved. Other claims paid by the board included $1,306 in the federal revenue sharing account, $440 in the road and bridge fund and $3,706 in the special hard road fund.

A motion to pay highway department employees weekly instead of twice monthly was approved by board members. The action followed a legal opinion that the bills could be audited twice monthly on the basis pay and once a month for overtime payments.

In other action, board members

Received a letter from County Clerk Evelyn Bowles informing them that voter approval extending the special road tax had been filed, authorizing the tax for 1976 through 1980.

Received an announcement that a rabies clinic will be held from 1 to 3 p.m. May 22 at the State Park fire house.

Heard a complaint charging air pollution in the vicinity of the Archer Daniels Midland plant. Whitwell said he had talked with county health authorities about rats and odor in the vicinity of the plant.

Heard an announcement that a meeting of township residents will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday in the township garage to discuss the Four-Township sewer plan and a hearing to be held May 22 concerning details of that program.

Job and financial needs cited by labor, business

Illinois must produce 600,000 new jobs in the next decade at a business investment cost of $45 billion, just to stay even with anticipated growth in the national economy, the board of directors of the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce said during the weekend.

George S. Trimble, president and chief executive officer of Bunker Ramo Corp., Oak Brook, reviewed the state's business climate and economic outlook at a meeting of more than 60 business, labor, political, academic and organization leaders at the Palmer House, Chicago.

The State Chamber invited the leaders to develop and coordinate a long-range program to improve the state's business climate, stimulate economic growth and create new jobs.

The first meeting of the new coalition was called in response to a spring State Chamber study survey of Illinois business men and women who make decisions about plant location and expansion. It showed over 80 per cent believe Illinois has a poor business climate.

"Illinois for many decades has experienced sound and steady economic growth and for a long period of time has been considered an attractive location for industry," Trimble told the group.

"But now there are disturbing signs which indicate Illinois is losing some of its competitive advantages. Most of what we have taken for granted with respect to this state's economic leadership is now causing us to pause to re-examine the directions in which our state is headed."

State Chamber President Lester W. Frisse Jr. suggested close examination of factors affecting economic growth, including actions and attitudes of state government, impact of regulations, tax and spending policies, incentives for business development and generation of jobs, attitudes of business people, public understanding of the need for capital investment and job opportunities, and Chicago area and Downstate growth trends.

He urged the coalition, representing a cross-section of economic and political interests, to "embark on a positive, continuing cooperative effort" to develop and implement both a short-term and long-range economic growth program for Illinois.

"Preserving jobs and generating a new era of economic growth are goals which can be shared by all of us," he said.

A second meeting of the group is scheduled for late June, following completion of an economic growth study commissioned by the State Chamber last year.

LESTER W. FRISSE

Economic growth hearing

The Illinois Commission for Economic Development will conduct a public hearing Monday, May 24, in Collinsville to encourage recommendations that would serve to "improve the current Illinois business climate."

The one-day session will be held in the Council Chambers of the City Hall in Collinsville, beginning at 9:30 a.m. Senator Don A. Moore of Midland, a legislative member of the commission, will chair the proceedings.

Moore said the commission hopes to hear testimony on any problem areas hindering general business and agricultural development which could be corrected by legislation in the next session of the General Assembly.

"We're looking for any suggestion or idea that would help improve our vigorous Illinois economy," Moore said. "The hearing will also serve as a forum to focus on situations which hamper greater economic development."

The commission is particularly interested in identifying factors that would improve the state's ability to compete for new industry, encourage established business and industry to expand within the state, bolster its position as one of the nation's leading export states, or promote any other worthwhile economic objective for Illinois citizens.

Moore said any person or organization wishing to testify should contact the commission's offices in Springfield to schedule a time on the hearing agenda.

every 15 seconds," Brey said. He cited a case of a Washington, D. C., man who was arrested May 25, 1975, for armed robbery July 25, while on bond, he was arrested for unlawful possession of a firearm. He again was released on bond and the next day was arrested for theft. The very next day he again was arrested for theft.

On July 31, he was arrested for armed robbery and was released on $200,000 bond. On Oct. 9, he again was arrested for armed robbery. On Nov. 26, the court dropped the gun charge. On Dec. 4, he was arrested for theft of a motor vehicle, but that charge was dropped.

Early this year, he pleaded guilty to petty theft and was released.

"We better become very much concerned about law and order. There are 450,000 police officers in this country. They are working. They are making the arrests. It is citizens or jurors who are turning these people loose," he contended.

Brey also noted that "plea bargaining," in which a criminal agrees to plead guilty to a lesser crime rather than go to trial, is emptying courtrooms, but is not solving our problems.

He added, "There are no easy answers. People need to become more aware of what is going on. When was the last time you went to a courtroom? State's attorneys are elected, not appointed. Do we question them?"

"Is he plea bargaining his cases away or working at them?" How many state's attorneys or judges work from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.? Are our people working an eight-hour day? These are questions we need to be asking," Brey said.

He gave a special tribute to the wives of all law enforcement officers "who have been able to put up with it all these years." Clyde Mertz, exalted ruler of the lodge, and David Whitell, chairman of the Elks' Law and Order Committee, presented special plaques to the chiefs of each local police department, honoring them for their service during the nation's Bicentennial year.

Receiving plaques were Chief Ralph "Dewey" Bravley of the Venice Police Department, Chief Frank Dutko of the Madison Police Department, Sgt. Harold Dieham representing Chief Roswell Bennett Jr. of the Pontoon Beach Police Department, Chief Ronald Vesper of the Granite City Police Department and Madison County Sheriff John Marras.

Assisting in presenting the plaques were Mayor Mike Sasyk of Madison, Mayor Paul Schuler of Granite City and State Sen. Sam Vadalbene of officials for installation of fire hydrants and street lights in the area as another inducement for the residents to remain in the township.

He told the area residents, however, "I'm not here to oppose what you might want to do in annexing to the city, but I want to point out the facts and to urge you to look at all the facts. What you do about this is entirely up to you."

Mayor Schuler told the group that "Mr. Paschoff and Granite City are not on the opposite ends of this matter. We all realize that this decision is entirely up to the people."

Casper Nighobosian, an assistant city attorney, told the property owners that their annexation also would place them within the Granite City Park District, where they would save considerable in fees for participation of their children in sports activities and in family use of park facilities.

The residents appeared primarily interested in fire protection as an incentive to annex to the city. One woman told the meeting that "you can't figure the need for fire protection in dollars and cents."

"I consider it a privilege to be able to pick up the phone and call the fire department if I need them, no matter what the cost."

Tuesday night's meeting was arranged by Mayor Schuler in response to petitions by nine families of the Benjamin area, asking that they be annexed to the city.

The petitions were filed after a fire last October destroyed one house on Logan Avenue, damaged two others and at one time threatened the life of a child.

The Granite City Fire Department at first declined to respond to that alarm, but later sent equipment and men when it was reported that the entire block might burn and that a child had been endangered.

Nighobosian explained that the city will need to acquire the signatures of all property owners and the signatures of 51 per cent of the electors registered voters whether property owners or not on petitions for annexation to qualify the entire area for annexation.

Schuler asked if the city could continue to provide fire protection for the area, said, "It is unlikely we could do so unless the area is annexed."

Edwardville, Merle Justus, chief of police of Cahokia, was master of ceremonies for the event. The Rev. Edward Groesch, pastor at St. Margaret Mary Catholic Church, delivered the invocation and benediction.

Self-gov't.

whose scale suggested the attractive and manageable size of a New England town. Pullman's community was a beautiful place when compared to Chicago immediately to the north.

One tenth of the town's area was taken by parks.

There was a lake for boating and swimming and there were athletic facilities.

Streets and sidewalks were paved and lined with shade trees.

The front lawn of each house was landscaped by the company and, by 1885, the town had 1,400 dwelling units.

Most had five rooms, and the company kept them in good repair. Most buildings were of matching yellow brick.

Health and sanitation conditions were considered excellent, and the company furnished garbage receptacles and emptied them daily.

The community spent more for education than any nearby area; the school term lasted 200 days, perhaps a record for the state at that time.

A pioneering attempt at kindergarten was established, and an evening school taught such commercial subjects as bookkeeping and stenography.

The cultural life of the town was varied and included an athletic program, a theater, a library and an 80-piece military band formed entirely of men who worked for the company.

In addition, the town earned a small profit.

In 1885, representatives from various bureaus of labor statistics throughout the United States wrote a highly complimentary report about living and working conditions at the "model city" of Pullman, Ill.

The Chicago Tribune called it "the most extensive and perfect industrial undertaking in the country."

It was in the minds of others, however, a feudal establishment completely owned and operated by Pullman to make money more efficiently from a severely regimented labor force.

Ministers struggling to pay the rental and price of gas and heat at Pullman's church had complained that "the word 'monopoly' seemed to be written across the pulpit and cushioned seats."

But investigators concluded that "if the workman at Pullman lives in a 'gilded cage,' we must congratulate him on its being so handsomely gilded; the average workman does not have his cage gilded."

In the spring of 1894, the "cage" appeared drab and oppressive to the workers.

Even the Tribune observed, "Variety and freedom on the outside—monotony and surveillance on the inside."

In response to an economic depression, wage reductions at Pullman from 1883 to May 1894 were variously estimated at 19 per cent (by the company), 25 per cent (by a federal commission), 33 1/3 per cent (by a private study) and 70 to 85 per cent (by the iron machinists at Pullman).

In addition, the 5,500-man work force of July 1893 had been reduced to 3,300 by May 1894. Rents for Pullman housing and prices at Pullman stores remained nearly 20 per cent higher than in Chicago.

Under these conditions, the longer a man worked and lived in Pullman, the greater his debt became.

In desperation, the grim workers joined the American Railway Union and followed Eugene Debs to his destiny.

For more than 10 years, the "model" town had been hailed as proof that rational ordering of a community could achieve high standards and meet social needs.

When the community failed, it was generally blamed on Pullman's paternalism rather than on the concept of planning.

The courts later decided that the "town" was an illegal transgression of authority. Judges forced Pullman to release his grip.

To such urban reformers as Jane Addams, Richard Ely and Graham Taylor, Pullman's failure was not a failure of planning, but an indication that planning would only work when combined with self-government.

Although the experiment is usually associated with the depression of 1893 and the tragic Pullman Strike of July 1894, the general idea that municipal beauty and efficiency are complementary—and should be emphasized by city planners and architects—was totally adopted by those who planned the Columbian Exposition in 1893 (World's fair in Chicago).

Whatever the fate of the town of Pullman, it was an example to municipal reformers who began forcibly to advocate urban planning (Illinois and throughout the nation).

Mitchell ceremonies cite value of sports

Mitchell area residents lined both sides of East Chain of Rocks Road on Saturday to view the third annual Mitchell Athletic Club baseball parade which concluded with crowning of 1976 Queen Karen Norris during weekend ceremonies at Mitchell field.

State Senator Sam Vadalabene, vice chairman of the state's U.S. Bicentennial Commission, served as master of ceremonies. He told the youthful players and those in attendance, "Let's look forward to the day when Mitchell will be represented at the Olympic games."

"A program like this one could make that dream a reality," he added.

The senator reminded the gathering that the United States will celebrate its 200th birthday in July, and also noted, "Next month, baseball will be 130 years old."

He said that the first baseball contest ever recorded in this country was played in New Jersey on June 19, 1846. The New York Knickerbockers won 23-1 in four innings.

State Representative Joe Lucio commended residents of Mitchell for having initiated the program, "giving these youths something to belong to."

Willard "Butch" Portell, clerk of the Madison County Circuit Court, introduced Mike Shannon, sportscaster, and former major league baseball player Dai Maxvill, a World Series hero formerly from Granite City.

It was noted that Shannon played for eight years in major league baseball and Maxvill 13 years. Maxvill played in five different World Series.

"It's nice to win," said Maxvill, "but don't concern yourself with that too much."

"Concern yourself more with doing the best you can, on and off the playing field."

And respect your playing fields, your managers and your parents, and have a fine season.

Pam Pritchard, 1975 Mitchell queen, relinquished her crown to the new queen, Karen Norris.

Miss Debbie Widell and Miss Carol Douglas served as attendants to the 1976 queen, who will reign during the baseball season starting Saturday, May 22, and then over next year's parade.

Parade Saturday will start baseball season

Although some teams of the Granite City Park District's summer baseball league began competition early this week, the 1976 season will officially open on Saturday.

Ceremonies at Wilson Park's diamond one will follow a parade of participating teams, area officials and supporting units.

The parade will begin from the Post Office parking lot in the 2300 block of Madison Avenue and proceed north on Madison Avenue to 26th Street. It will then turn left onto 26th and then right onto State Street to the park's diamond one near Vandenberg Grade School.

At Wilson Park, the Rev. J. Dave Edwards, pastor of First Assembly of God Church, will offer the invocation, followed by playing of the national anthem by the GCHS North and GCHS South Bands.

Following a talk by Mayor Paul Schuler and then introduction of special guests, Granite City Mayor President Bill H. Terrell will pitch to Mayor Schuler Mike Bledsoe, president of Granite City Jaycees, will serve as catcher and Rev. Edwards will be the umpire behind the plate.

A total of 56 teams, ages 8-15, in leagues representing four baseball divisions will march in the parade along with bands from both Granite City high schools and the Ainad Shrine Rolling Nobles motorcycle precision team.

Baseball divisions participating in the parade and the park districts' three months of competition are: Aum-O'Fallon, Friendly and Sally Parker Leagues; Bantam-Joe Loftus, Larry Schoeber and Owen Friend Leagues; Midget-Dai Maxvill, Jim Holland, Smokey Padgett and Joe Hoerner Leagues; and Juvenile-Slim Culpen and Doc Coleman Leagues.

Following the ceremonies on diamond one, teams scheduled to play Saturday will compete at their playing fields.

They are: Officer Friendly League; Granite City Metal vs. Road Runners 2 p.m. (diamond 5); Larry Schoeber League; Eagles vs. Knights of Columbus 2 p.m. (diamond 4).

Dai Maxvill League; Industrial Supplies vs. Merchants 2 p.m. (diamond 6); Joe Hoerner League; Moose Lodge 272 vs. Hornets 2 p.m. (diamond 2); Joe Loftus League; Granite Sheet Metal vs. Dudley Bombers 6 p.m. (diamond 3).

Marathon run nearing

If Granite Cityman Richard A. Rose has his way, the 1976 Memorial Day holiday weekend will be a memorable time for him and area track enthusiasts.

Rose, 24, a former Granite City High School track standout, has selected Sunday, May 30, for his second attempt to break a marathon running record of 121 miles and 440 yards, set in 1969 by Jared R. Beards of Westport, Md., in 22 hours and 47 minutes.

Last year, he participated in a Cancer Fund run a week before a scheduled marathon run and suffered leg injuries that forced postponement of the record-setting attempt.

Rose hopes to average 5-7 miles each hour on GCHS South's quarter-mile end track, and plans to consume grapes, fish, oranges and Gator

Aid with pinches of salt during the run.

He believes his major obstacle will be fighting off fatigue.

"I've been conditioning since February," says Rose, "under the supervision of Granite City district athletic trainer Randy Biggerstaff."

He said Biggerstaff recommended that he perform five quarter-mile repeats, with 15-minute rest intervals, per day for speed and to help condition Rose's leg muscles for longer distances.

"Just recently," comments Rose, "I ran two miles in 9:18, the best time I've had since high school."

He is now running two to 10 miles a day and plans to gradually increase the distances as the May 30 date draws near.

Bubblemasters take Midwest Dive awards

More than 100 scuba divers representing 32 clubs in the Midwest Dive Council took part in competition this week at the council's spring convention at Orleans Trail, Lake Stockton, in Western Missouri.

Divers from the local Bubblemasters Club capturing trophies in the contests include: Edward Duffin, first place, most fish, spearfishing (scuba); and second place, most fish, spearfishing (skin diving).

Wally Marzful won the trophy for largest fish speared in scuba competition. Also in scuba, Larry Earney took fourth place in most fish and Phil Lamm received the fifth-place quantity award.

Rich Grizzard was the third-place finisher in most fish (skin diving).

At the Bubblemasters' monthly meeting Tuesday evening at the local YMCA, authorization was given to purchase a new portable compressor unit, weighing about 90 pounds. Vance Weiss was named to head a committee to study various models.

Larry Earney, Bubblemasters president, said the club's Memorial Day dive will be staged May 29-30 at Pontiac Boat Dock, Bull Shoals, Ark. A traditional fish fry in connection with the dive is under the chairmanship of Mrs. Paula DePew.

Several local divers also made plans to attend a dive at Baxter Boat Dock, Table Rock Lake, Mo., to be hosted by St. Louis Scuba and McDonnell Scuba Divers on May 22-23.

The Coolidge Braves decisively claimed the seventh grade meet title.

David Fernandez and Robert Lovins were the Braves' double winners. Fernandez won the hurdles—five (17.7) and the triple jump (31.3).

Fernandez also joined the 880 relay squad of Don Keeling, Kenny Waggoner and Craig Ely in winning (1:53.9).

Lovins set a new meet record in winning the high jump (5-2) and also won the long jump (16-5).

Kevin Buchanan placed Grigsby's second-place finisher with wins in the 100 dash (11.6) and 220 dash (26.3).

Edwards anchored the mile relay team of Don Keeling, Kenny Waggoner and Craig Ely in winning (1:53.9).

Lovins set a new meet record in winning the high jump (5-2) and also won the long jump (16-5).

Warrior Moran to enroll at Millikin

Keith Moran, a senior at Granite City High School, will enroll at Millikin University, Decatur, where he will play football next fall under Coach Skip Matheson.

Moran, a 5-10, 185-pound guard and linebacker, is expected to play a major role in the continued success of the Big Blue football program, the coach predicts.

Millikin is a member of the College Conference of Illinois and Wisconsin and a Division II member of the National Collegiate Athletic Association. Captain of his Warrior team, Moran received regional honorable mention in Illinois and was named as a first-team guard in the St. Louis metropolitan area. He was chosen to receive the "most inspirational to team" award at South High.

Free rides feature of Bicentennial bus

A Bi-State bus decorated especially for the Bicentennial will be introduced in ceremonies at the Old Post Office 18th Street, between Olive and Locust at 12 noon tomorrow, Robert J. Baer, Bi-State Development Agency executive director, has announced.

The bus, painted with colorful reproductions of colonial flags used by American troops during the Revolutionary War, will operate each day on regular bus lines, offering free rides to all who board it.

This is our happy birthday, America! gift to the more than 200 million people in our Missouri-Illinois service area. Baer said, "We hope that everyone will enjoy at least one ride with us during the remainder of 1976."

Inside the Bicentennial bus, riders will find a display of posters featuring the flags of colonial America with the history of each.

Each passenger will receive a free white and blue transit station brochure to keep as a memento. A variety of American music from folk to jazz, played over a special sound system installed in the bus, will entertain passengers.

as they roll along. Part of the fun will be the element of surprise, since no one but the driver will know where the bus will appear on any given day. Baer said adding, "Wherever you see it, hop aboard—the ride's on us."

Commenting on Bi-State's growing patronage, Baer said, "We are continuing to improve our service and equipment, extending and adding lines while maintaining one of the lowest fare structures in the nation."

14-2 varsity doubles record for South duo

With high school tennis district competition scheduled to be played here on May 22, Granite City High School South already is assured of a successful season.

Coach Richard Harmon believes the team's success has been aided materially by the doubles play of Ron Backs and Tom Baker.

"They work hard and complement each other on the courts," says Harmon, "and they have almost equal playing abilities."

The two sophomores teamed together in a Granite City Park District tennis program while junior high students, and still maintain a close friendship on and off the courts.

Champion to officiate at state all-star basketball

Officials from three geographical regions of the state have been named to work the Illinois Basketball Coaches Association all-star games on Saturday, July 10, at Illinois State University, Normal-Bloomington.

They are Dick Leiber of LaGrange and Frank Krone of Rock Island from the North, Jack Milam of East Peoria and John Duncan of Peoria from the Central area and Bob Freels of Centralia and Conrad "Babe" Champion of Granite City from the Southern area.

Three referees will be assigned to each of the two games by draw, with each region represented at each game. The Class A game will start at 6:15 and the Class AA contest at 8:15 at Horton Field House. Quad-city players will participate.

AUTO ACCIDENT
Mrs. Oretta Pickett, 27, of East St. Louis was treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital for pain to both elbows and released, following an auto accident. An auto driven by Mrs. Pickett and one driven by Greg Weeks, 34, of 2708 Edwards St., collided at Seventh Street and Madison Avenue, Madison, at 4:30 p.m.

Teamwork is the key to their having won 14 meets while losing only two going into today's competition.

"I play the backcourt and work the volley with opponents while waiting for them to make a mistake," says Backs.

"Once that mistake occurs and we have them set up," he continued, "my partner, who plays slightly forward, dashes in close to the net for a power shot."

Their only losses were to Belleville West and O'Fallon. Both also have competed in singles matches and done well. Last week, against St. Louis University High squad, Backs and Baker won in doubles, 6-6, 6-1.

World cooling predicted — could intensify starvation and unrest

By LESTER BELL
Press-Record Washington Bureau

A Central Intelligence Agency report that the world is undergoing a weather upheaval, has grave implications for the United States, says the document declassified.

The 38-page study was prepared by the CIA in 1974 just before the Rome world food conference. Rep. Fred Richmond, D-N.Y., learned of it in March and cleared the way for its release this month.

The CIA said leading climatologists of the West have confirmed reports of a "detrimental global climatic change."

It is a return, says a University of Wisconsin expert, "to that of the new Boreal era (1800-1850) — an era of drought, famine and political unrest in the Western world."

The change began in 1960, but it was not recognized until the 1970s when "one nation after another experienced the impact

"The headlines from around the world told a story still not fully understood — or one we don't want to face," the CIA commented.

"Climatic is now the critical factor," asserts the agency report. "The politics of food will become the central issue of every government."

The report says that "the new climatic era brings a promise of famine and starvation to many areas of the world. The economic and political impact of major climatic shift is almost beyond comprehension."

The CIA also foresees "new alignments" among nations "to ensure a secure supply of food resources."

While giving the CIA's conclusions, the declassified report does not include the agency's recommendations. These have been deleted from the report that has been made public.

The congressman, however, offers some recommendations, perhaps based on that still-secret part of the CIA report.

Richmond calls the report "a warning to all of us concerned with food production and international stability that changes in climate patterns may result in mass starvation, social unrest and famine."

The congressman calls for hearings on the study by the House Agriculture Committee, a national and international soil conservation program to forestall new "dust bowls," a search for plants using less water to combat cooling trends, a system of grain reserves to help nations which may face starvation because of the change, and an intensified farm research program.

"We must realize there is

"Time is critical, since agricultural research is not only a function of time and money, but is based on the number of growing seasons available for study."

The CIA report is based largely on a study by Reid A. Bryson of the University of Wisconsin. He says the world's climate is cooling and is reverting to the new Boreal era.

A return of that era would mean that India will have a major drought every four years and could support only three-fourths of her present population.

India would need 30 million to 50 million metric tons of grain annually to prevent 150 million people from dying.

China would have a major famine every five years, calling for 50 million metric tons of grain to avert starvation.

The Soviet Union would lose Kazakhstan for grain production. This would cost her a yearly loss of 48 million metric tons of grain.

Canada, a major exporter, would lose more than 50 per cent of her production and 75 per cent of her grain exports.

Northern Europe would lose 25 to 30 per cent of its current productive capacity while the Common Market countries would cease exports entirely.

United States production would not be significantly affected, the report says in an addendum to the Bryson study — although the Northern Rockies and Southwest would be somewhat drier in a climatic change.

Red Cross program to teach swimming to handicapped youngsters

Recruiting is now under way for individuals wishing to assist physically handicapped American Red Cross instructional swimming program which will begin on June 7 in Granite City at a private swimming facility.

The program of instruction is available for any physically handicapped person in the Quad-Cities area.

Exceptional swimming ability is not necessary to assist in the program. Specialized training will be given to interested individuals immediately prior to commencement of the program.

Individuals may assist from one to four hours per day depending on their time schedule for the five-week program.

We had 29 people assisting in the program last year, ranging from high school students to businessmen, to retired people and every step in between, commented Joanne Higgins, program director.

We told them it would be hard work and they would invest a great deal of time for no compensation in return, but when the program concluded, they all found that the amount of pride and satisfaction they got from it far surpassed anything they could take to the bank," she said.

Minimum age for assisting is 15 years old, although there is no maximum age. In addition to the staff, qualified lifeguards also volunteers will be in constant attendance.

"This entire program, from Jo Higgins all the way down the line to the people who clean the pool before and after the program are volunteers. We at the Red Cross are exceptionally proud of these people. They are the backbone of any community," added Mildred Meehan, executive secretary of the Tri-Cities Chapter.

Interested individuals are asked to contact the Red Cross, 432 7th St., and attend an introductory session to be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday, May 17, at the Namoki Recreation Center. Amos and Franklin Avenues.

Rehabilitation a primary nursing home objective

By PAT FOLEY
Press-Record Staff Writer
National Nursing Home Week activities at Colonial Haven Nursing Home, Granite City, May 11-18 are centering around recreation and rehabilitation programs.

Residents have arranged a "rockathon" to raise funds for the Heart Fund, and in a variety of ways they are utilizing their professional and practical knowledge in intellectual, social, religious, recreational and craft pursuits, along with service projects and community involvement.

Each new Colonial Haven resident is evaluated in determining the care required and ways to achieve goals, including recuperation and return to one's home. Basic rehabilitation rules include to start early, treat the whole person, stress ability rather than disability and emphasize activity instead of inactivity.

A monthly calendar aids residents in planning ahead for field trips, nursing home and hospital visits to see friends, and events within Colonial Haven.

The national theme for the week is "Years make us special," and Lester Robertson, administrator, tries to utilize this concept, in the belief that a resident's attitude is intertwined with the effectiveness of the care being given.

Responsibilities of the residents range from delivering mail and setting clocks to rolling silverware in napkins and folding laundry. Arrangements can be made for married couples at the home. Occupying a double room with private bath, they are allowed—as are all the residents—to bring furnishings from home to help make their stay at Colonial Haven pleasurable.

"Rehabilitation homes do not exist just to do for the residents. Rather, the residents do for themselves and re-learned how to be independent from families and friends," Robertson comments.

"This makes going home more meaningful for the resident and less cumbersome for their loved ones."

Youth hurt; gun charge filed

A passerby noticing a gun on the front seat of an auto in an emergency parking area at St. Elizabeth at 10:50 p.m. Wednesday, notified police who arrived at the scene at two men were approaching the car. A loaded and cocked 9 mm automatic pistol was discovered beneath the center arm rest, police said.

Police later found Luray Stanford, 17, of 172 Vesla Jones Homes, Venice, being treated in the hospital emergency room for two superficial cuts and two puncture wounds to the back. He was admitted and is in satisfactory condition today.

Venice police said a preliminary investigation shows that Stanford may have been wounded when a gun accidentally discharged as Stanford and friends were looking at the weapon.

Stanford's injuries could have been caused by the bullet ricocheting from a wall or from fragmentation, Venice police theorized.

Kenneth Calvin Campbell, 19, of 181 Lee Wright Homes, Venice, one of the men in the hospital parking lot, was charged with carrying a City police with unlawful use of a weapon.

56 barges backed up today as GC lock work continues

As of this morning, there are 36 northbound tows backed up and 20 southbound tows at Granite City Locks and Dam 27, a total of 56.

Workers have not been able to do any repair work on the big locks for the past three weeks because of the relatively high river stage. The river has been declining, however, and is expected that repair work will resume Monday, the lockmaster said today.

He added that Aug. 15 is the nearest target date for work completion, but that rains changing the river level could change this.

It takes from 50 minutes to lock through an average tow to an hour and a half for a "double" or difficult tow. The tow that is now last in line headed north will be in the line for about four days before it gets through the lock.

Work on the repairs must be stopped, he said, when the river reaches 18 feet at St. Louis.

James A. Peterson, chief, Operations Division, St. Louis District, Army Corps of Engineers, said this week that "due to construction of the lower guideway and because of additional maintenance work required within the main lock chamber, the main lock chamber at Locks No. 27, Granite City, mile 185.0, Upper Mississippi River, remains closed. The lock is 1,200 feet long.

"The 600-foot long auxiliary lock chamber remains open to all traffic."

"A helper boat is available to provide for safe passage in the construction area and to extract the first cuts of tows in excess of 600 feet."

"In order to maximize the use of the helper boat, beginning May 19 a new lockage procedure is being implemented."

"The main lock is reopened, the following lockages will be used."

"a. Whenever the number of tows waiting to be locked is between six and 15, a 3-up and 3-down sequence of lockage will be utilized."

Miss GC to greet public

A busy round of engagements appears to be in store for the current Miss Granite City, Karen Ann Koliste, before she starts to devote her energies to preparations for the Miss Illinois Pageant, scheduled July 19 to July 24 at Aurora, Ill.

The local beauty-talent contest winner will make her first official public appearances this weekend at two separate activities in the community.

On Saturday, she will present autographed photos to fans at Marilyn's House of Fashion, 1331 Nineteenth St., from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m.

Marilyn's, which sponsored Miss Koliste in the Granite City pageant, is inviting the public to come and meet the new Miss Granite City during the five-hour period.

Tickets may be purchased at the door Sunday, costing $5 for adults and $1 for senior citizens and children.

Miss Koliste will be a special guest at Wednesday evening's installation dinner of the Granite City Business and Professional Women's Club at the Cullinville Holiday Inn.

As senior student in the School of Nursing at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, Miss Koliste is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Koliste of Madison.

The new Miss Granite City weighs 114 pounds and is five feet, five inches tall. Her hair is dark brown and she has hazel eyes. She is 20 years old.

Miss Koliste enjoys swimming, bicycling and crocheting. She has served as bat girl for the SITE varsity baseball team and was chosen Miss Fidelity's first special maid to Miss Safe Bowling of St. Louis.

Junior Girl Scout Troop 809, sponsored by Sacred Heart School, enjoyed a cook-out and hike at Monk's Mound last week.

The scouts toured the museum and were shown a program of slides explaining the construction of the mound by the Cahokia Indians, how it became a thriving center of Indian culture supporting a population of 40,000 people and the fact that today archeologists are still uncovering the secrets of the mound builders.

Following the museum tour, the girls cooked hamburgers on individual vagon-borne stoves they had made for the occasion and spent the evening blazing new trails on the mound.

Participating in the field trip were scouts Sue Alexander, Debra and Kim Daugherty, Tracy Conkovich, Denise McKee, Cindy Milankovic, Debby Miller, Janette and Theresa Naleir, Lisa Preloger, Laura Smolar, Theresa Soelner, Lisa Walker, Connie Williamson, Michele Zelenka, Jack, Soeners, Cindy Morris and leaders Mrs. Georgia Miller and Mrs. Mary Rita Ablers.

Rebecca L. Ashcraft and Gregory Becker are wed

Miss Rebecca Lynn Ashcraft, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ashcraft, 2306 Bern Ave., and Gregory Allen Becker, a son of Mr. and Mrs. George Becker, 8775 Terrace Drive, Pittsburgh, Pa., exchanged wedding vows in an afternoon ceremony at Niedringhaus United Methodist Church.

The Rev. Roy L. Baugh officiated at the 2 o'clock double ring ceremony.

Paul Mabrey sang a selection of wedding music, accompanied at the organ by Marilyn Berna.

Given in marriage by her father, the former Miss Ashcraft selected a long flowing gown of white jersey knit, delicately trimmed with a beaded design on the bodice and around the roll collar.

The long sleeves were tightly cuffed at the wrists, and the semi-straight skirt fell gracefully from the high rise waistline.

She wore a fitted satin cap, accented with tiny pearls, to secure her veil of bridal illusion. She held a bouquet of elephas and greenery.

Matron of honor Mrs. Christy Hatcher, a sister of the bride, chose a light aqua blue tulle knit dress fashioned with bell sleeves and scoop neckline and enhanced with a diamond shaped design of beads at the Empire waist.

Bridesmaids Barbara Sprick, Jennifer Brown and a sister-in-law of the bride, appeared in gowns identical to the honor at-tendant's dress.

Junior bridesmaid Angela Ashcraft, the bride's sister, wore a yellow dress and a yellow wide brim hat.

Each adult attendant wore a white picture hat trimmed with blue ribbons and all carried colonial bouquets of yellow Fugi mums and greenery.

Kimberly Becker, a niece of the groom, served as flower girl and wore a yellow frock. She held a basket of white button mums.

Attending the groom as best man was Clay Winfield. Groomsman were George and Matthew Becker, brothers of the groom, Dave Macies and John Schooley.

Seating the guests were Paul Ashcraft, the bride's brother, and Dave Carmody.

Guests were received by the newly married Mr. and Mrs. Becker at a reception held in the Officers Club at the Granite City Army Installation.

Rehearsal dinner for the wedding party and their families was held at Charlie's Restaurant on the evening prior to the service.

The couple is now residing in Granite City following a wedding trip to Tan-Tar-A Resort.

Both young people graduated from Granite City High School. The bride also graduated from Jewish Hospital School of Nursing and is employed there as a registered nurse. Her husband is a junior student at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, where he is majoring in government.

Dr. Kamil Winter of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, will be the speaker at the morning worship service speaking on the topic, "The Meaning of Freedom."

A basket dinner with each family providing food for their own families will follow the services on the church grounds, reminiscent of the old-fashioned dinner so well known in the early days of the church, the pastor said.

The chairman reported all members of the congregation are asked to dress in the fashion of 1776 and the men have been requested to grow beards.

During the day, Ralph Frohardt, will show slides of the early history of the church and Granite City, and recent events of the community.

"The First Day Singers, of Mount Vernon, Ill., will present a Bicentennial program in music at 3 p.m.

The group has recorded the musical "Alleluia-A Praise Gathering for Believers" and have traveled widely in Illinois and Missouri establishing a reputation for outstanding music in the contemporary manner, Rev. Baugh added.

Veizer, chief of the Granite City department established in 1896; David Whitsell, chairman of the Elks law and order committee; and Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler. Whitsell's committee includes Clyde Mertz, Al Barnes III, Claude Miller, Harold Ruth, Harry Taylor, Earl Buenger, Vince Saputo and James Logan.

Summer tuition in Madison

A summer school program for Madison High School students will be held this year under a tuition system resulting from a shortage of state aid funds, the Madison Board of Education decided in a special meeting Tuesday night.

Students living within the district will be assessed a fee of $25 for each course taken during summer school sessions. Those living outside the district will be charged $30 per course.

The board decided at the same time to conduct a restricted summer school program for elementary students, with four weeks of school instead of the customary six, according to School Superintendent John Paicheff.

Paicheff reported to the board that negotiations with teachers still are in progress and another meeting is scheduled Tuesday, May 26.

"Money is a real problem this year, largely due to the fact we cannot tell just how much will be coming from the state," Paicheff explained to the board.

The board held disciplinary hearings and reinstated two MHS students on probation. The Silver Bells Senior Citizen Club was given permission to use the Dunbar school annex for their meeting.

Accelerate collection —Howlett

Michael J. Howlett, Democratic nominee for governor, this week endorsed acceleration of income and sales tax collections to "help stabilize the Illinois state government's fiscal situation."

He added, "The state has serious financial problems and important unmet legal and moral obligations—especially to the children in our schools."

"For nearly a year, the state has been in a financially unstable condition—working balances too small to pay all bills promptly and to provide adequate financial security for the state."

"It is urgent that we seize every reasonable opportunity to restore the state's fiscal integrity so we can move on to fulfill our obligations without an increase in taxes."

"We can no longer afford to bury our heads in the sand, as my opponent recommends. Our state's financial problems are real and must be solved. They will not simply disappear."

"We must begin immediately to marshal our resources, to revive our economy and to control our spending so that we can soon return to a sound financial footing."

"To avoid a tax increase and begin to meet our obligations, we must hold down spending. We must budget more tightly for fiscal 1977 than we did for fiscal 1976."

"We must accept proposals such as this in order to restore the state's fiscal health and move on to satisfy our other legal obligations."

"This proposal is essential to avoid chaos in our schools this fall. At present, the state is over $100 million short of meeting its obligations to the schools and our 2,250,000 students."

"Last year's cuts in state funding came too late for many school economies to be implemented. Without increased state support this year, programs and staff will be drastically reduced throughout Illinois."

"We must act now to maximize support for the schools and avoid a substantial reduction in educational opportunities."

"Admittedly, this is a stop-gap measure. But it is a stop-gap that will help prevent a tax increase."

"It will not permit new spending—but will help us to overcome the adverse effects of this year's $200 million deficit, to pay future state bills on time, and to help meet currently unmet bills."

GC Junior Service style show Sunday

by DONNA HARTWICK
Press-Record Staff Writer
A wedding gown worn in 1903 by the late Mrs. Violet (Hubbard) Holsinger and current fashions will provide a contrast in women's dress styles from the early 1900's to today's attire, underscoring the Granite City Junior Service Club's fashion show theme, "You've Come A Long Way Baby."

The show will be presented to the public at 2 p.m. Sunday in the auditorium at Granite City High School South.

Tickets costing $2 for adults and $1 for senior citizens and children under 12 are available from club members, at the 14 sponsoring stores or at the door on the day of the style show.

The late Mrs. Holsinger was married on Sept. 3, 1903 to the late J. W. Holsinger at the Tamms Avenue Methodist Church in St. Louis. Their grandson's wife, Mrs. Faith Holsinger, is a member of the host club.

Susan Ochsa will model the wedding gown, which features a fitted bodice with an over-bustle effect fashioned with rows of insertion lace. The neckline is high and the long, full sleeves are accented with the decorative lace.

The semi-full skirt falls softly from a natural waistband and also is created with vertical bands of insertion lace, which forms delicate square designs near the hemline.

Mrs. Beverly King, president of the club, will model a double breasted dark blue jacket with white slacks and a bright striped blouse, depicting the casual choice of many women today and completing the orbit of the show's theme.

Ollie Raymond, St. Louis weatherman, will serve as commentator, and Karen Koliste, the new Miss Granite City, will make her first official public appearance since winning the title in local competition.

Miss Koliste is majoring in nursing at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, where she is on the Dean's List. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Koliste. The Miss Granite City Pageant was sponsored by the Granite City Jaycees on April 25.

Also highlighting the show will be a skit, "1776," performed by members of Masquers, Inc. Arrangements for the annual fund-raising project are under the direction of Mrs. Gale McFarland and Mrs. Donna Sprinkle, co-chairmen.

Quad-City stores who will provide wearing apparel for the 75 models, including adults, children and teenagers, are: Wayne's Men's Wear, Cut and Curl Boutique, Annex II, Glik's and Leader's Department stores, Trattler's Men's Wear, Schermer's Men's and Boy's Shop, Libson Shop, Tops 'N Bottoms, Ruth's Store of Fashion, Boutique II, Lord Nelson's, Children's Shop and Marilyn's House of Fashion.

All proceeds from the show will be used by the club for its charitable programs, geared primarily to aid area school children by providing clothing, shoes, eye examinations and eye glasses.

The Granite City Junior Service Club also donates to scholarship funds and provides food baskets for the elderly at Easter and Christmas holidays, according to Mrs. King, club president.

Minerva Women installs at banquet

The Minerva Women's Club held its annual mother-daughter banquet at the Sunset Hills Country Club, with table appointments and favors in a Bicentennial theme.

The president, JoAnn Kraus, welcomed the guests and read a resume of the club's activities and philanthropies. Peggy Solberger, vice-president, conducted the installation of officers for the next club year.

Those installed were Donna Halbert, president; Marlene Manongian, vice-president; Elaine Shipcoff, recording secretary; Arlene Laub, corresponding secretary; Zola Burgess, treasurer; and Clara Parker, sergeant-at-arms. Mrs. Halbert, after receiving the gavel and president's pin from Mrs. Kraus, read her committee appointments for the 1976-77 club year.

Entertainment for the evening was presented by Richard, Peter, Troy and Angela Moore, children of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Moore, who played violin selections.

The committee in charge of the evening's arrangements, included Peggy Solberger, chairman; and Mary Tarpoif, Faye Mercer, Beverly Benoit, Zola Burgess, Shirley Goff and Margaret Rehagen.

Others attending were Ida Weiss, Sarah Huber, JoAnn Bucky, JoAnn Terrell, Tami Terrell, Ruth Houser, Leslie Houser, Lori Houser, Joyce Harris, Dana Harris, Cathy Busch, Ruth Thornberry, Helen Cook, Lena Barnett, Ollie Kendall, Anita Ertumoff, Zoya Palchiff, Mrs. J. C. Laub, Mrs. Raymond Barr, Charlotte Rapp, Barbara Barr, Bernice Motin, Sharon Parker, Jane Franks, Patricia Hewlett, Joyce Gasparovic, Phyllis Benoit, Herla Gola, Phyllis Brusati, Marie Gola, Pat Mrs. Betty Poeling, Betty Geiger, Sandra Lane, Virginia Thompson, Edna Sheridan, Dolores Sheridan, Mary Ellen Beecher, Ophie Dorch, Betty Skirball, Gen Mercer, Lori Halbert, Alma Halbert, Marilyn Kraynak, Christy Halbert, Ida Carris, Jane Kraus, Mildred Kraus, Jackie Solberger, Terri Moore, Gana Shipcoff, Olga Tarpoif, Jeanette Cravens, Helen Kuenster and Harriet Mercer.

DAMAGE AT MARKET
Damage estimated at $500 was caused by a vandal to the glass front door at Schewe's Market, 2550 Grand Ave., it was reported at 9:25 p.m. Tuesday.

SPORTSWEAR is selected by Mrs. Beverly King, GC Junior Service Club president in keeping with the fashion show theme, "You've Come A Long Way Baby." Tickets still remain for Sunday's event.

WEDDING GOWN, first worn by the late Mrs. Violet Holsinger in 1903 and modeled here by Susan Ochsa, will be featured in the Junior Service style show at 2 p.m. Sunday in South High auditorium.

Jackson-Gragg nuptials at St. Elizabeth Church

Candlelight illuminated the sanctuary and bouquets of white mums decorated the altar of St. Elizabeth Catholic Church for the wedding on April 23 of Miss Patricia Ann Gragg and George L. Jackson Jr.

Mrs. Betty Grote presided at the organ for soloist Miss Linda Bennett, who sang The Lord's Prayer, "Because," "Precious," "Few" and "Ave Marie."

Officiating at the double ring ceremony at 7 o'clock in the evening were the Rt. Rev.

Magr. Lawrence J. Mattingly, pastor, and the Rev. Tony Rochel of St. Louis University.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David H. Gragg, 2020 Paul Ave. Parents of the groom are Mrs. Joan Jackson and George Jackson Sr., both of Granite City.

For her wedding, the bride chose a long white sate gown fashioned in an Empire silhouette. The sheer yoke was outlined with Cluny lace and tiny Venise lace motifs banded the high neckline.

Brussels lace accented the bodice, long full sleeves and hemline of the semi-straight skirt.

She wore a mantilla veil bordered with a wide band of Brussels lace, and held a crescent bouquet of yellow and white daisies with springer foliage.

Mrs. Cheryl DeRuntz was matron of honor and the bridesmaids were Mrs. Kathy Nenninger and Miss Susan Gragg, sisters of the bride.

They were dressed alike in yellow print gowns with high necklines and fitted bodices, trimmed with green and yellow flowers.

The floral trim enhanced the short jackets with long sleeves.

GRANITE CITY PRESS-RECORD

Thurs., May 13, 1976 Page 21

Each attendant held a nosegay of white daisies, pom poms and carnations.

Michelle Nenninger, a niece of the bride, wore a yellow taffeta frock made with a white pique apron. She carried a yellow basket filled with yellow daisy petals.

The groom chose his brother-in-law, Jack Merritt, as best man. John Nenninger Jr., a brother-in-law of the bride, Richard and Gary Gragg, brothers of the bride, and Michael Montague, the groom's uncle, completed the corps of groomsmen and ushers.

Miss Linda Bennett presided over the guest book at a reception held at the Long Lake Fire Hall in Pontoon Beach.

Mrs. Gragg, mother of the bride, chose a floor-length peach dress complemented with a matching lace jacket and white accessories. She wore a yellow carnation corsage.

A 1972 graduate of Granite City High School, the bride is now residing in Madison following a wedding trip to the Lake of the Ozarks.

The groom graduated in 1970 from East St. Louis High School and works at John Cochran Veterans' Hospital, St. Louis.

GUEST CONDUCTOR Frank A. Pierson, director of bands at the University of Iowa in Iowa City, who will conduct three bands in the All-City Band Festival, set Saturday, May 22, in Memorial Gymnasium. More than 300 Granite City students from elementary through high school levels will perform at the 7:30 p.m. concert.

University of Iowa director to lead festival musicians

Frank A. Pierson, director of bands at the University of Iowa since 1967 and a professor in the Iowa University School of Music, will conduct the fourth annual All-City Band Festival at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, May 22, in Memorial Gymnasium.

Auditions for the participating bands, consisting of 300 student musicians, have been completed and rehearsals are being arranged, according to Joseph E. Owens, Granite City School District director of music.

Three levels of bands will participate: Owens said. A fifth and sixth grade band with students from Lake and Nameoki elementary bands, a junior high band—seventh and eighth grade students from Nameoki, Griggs and Prather—and a combined senior high band drawing students from North and South high schools.

Prof. Pierson will work with the students all day May 22 and will conduct the public concert the same evening.

In addition to his responsibilities with the University of Iowa bands, Prof. Pierson also conducts a band which tours Europe during the summer months.

He is a native of Clarkfield, Minn., and received a bachelor of music degree from Grinnell College and a master's degree from the University of Iowa.

After joining the University of Iowa faculty, he was director

Prof. Pierson serves as conductor of the Cedar Rapids Municipal Band, a post he has filled for the past six years.

He has published 40 complete marching band half-time shows, five precision drill books for the marching band and one drum corps.

His articles have been published in The Instrumentalist, The School Musician, The Music Journal, The Iowa Music Educator and the Iowa Music Master magazines.

He is married and the father of two sons. His professional affiliations include: American Bandmasters Association, Iowa Bandmasters Association (president), College Band Directors National Association (president), Iowa Music Educators Association (president), Phi Mu Alpha, Phi Beta Mu, Kappa Kappa Psi and Theta Xi fraternities, Rotary Club and the Congregational Church.

Lesche hosts President's Brunch

Lesche Literary Club hosted its annual President's Brunch Tuesday at Sunset Hills Country Club and conducted installation ceremonies for newly-elected officers.

Pink cloths covered the tables which were centered with straw baskets of spring flowers and a punch bowl. Individual favors were nosegays of pastel carnations.

Branch was served to 16 members, an associate member, Mrs. Judy Padgett, and guest, Miss Helen Kuester.

Mrs. Lois Holsinger served as the installing officer and used a miniature May Pole as a symbol of how lives of each person is intertwined with one another.

Officers for the ensuing year include Mrs. Faith Holsinger, president; Mrs. Hannah Kierschmidt, vice-president, who was not present and for whom Mrs. Marie Gordon served as proxy officer; Mrs. Marie Klein, secretary, and Hazel Pellett, treasurer.

The program included reading of essays which were submitted by high school students for the Lesche 12th annual Literary Award in honor of the founder of Lesche, the late Mrs. Garnet Kelso.

Comedian Frye at 1976 Springfest

Comedian David Frye and the Southern Illinois Association Auto Show will be new features of this year's Springfest at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Scheduled May 17-22, Springfest is sponsored by the Major Events Council in conjunction with the Student Activities Office at SIUE.

This year's events will last the entire week, more than twice as long as last year's program, according to Bret Cain, a member of the MEC. "We wanted this Springfest to be bigger, better and more interesting."

Intense excitement will be a keynote of Monday's opening ceremonies as sky divers jump from an aircraft above the crowd," Cain said. Throughout the day, events will continue with contests on the campus hairpin. Later in the afternoon, students will "rock 'n' roll" with the band "Woodrow."

Next Tuesday, students will be entertained by the Marching Karoo Band and a greased pig contest, and they will dance to the sounds of "Tattoo."

Wednesday's program will feature a skydiving clinic and demonstration. The University Center Board will provide a giant banana split to be shared by hungry students. There will be helicopter rides throughout the day and a concert by "Griffen" in the afternoon.

David Frye will highlight Wednesday's activities with his political impressions. Frye's performance begins at 7:30 p.m. in the Meridian Ballroom of the University Center. Students can relax in the sun and listen to blue grass music by the "New Dinosaurs of Rome" at the American folk festival on Thursday, May 20. Donna Joan Voss marries Jeffrey Elliott Larner

The wedding of Miss Donna Joan Voss, a daughter of Major (ret.) and Mrs. B. A. Voss, Rural Route Two, Granite City, and Lance Corporal Jeffrey Elliott Larner, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Larner, Patricia Lane, Granite City, was solemnized on April 24 at St. Elizabeth Catholic Church, officiating at the double-ring ceremony at 1 p.m. was Father James Zaunmeyer.

Soloist Miss Melanie Asadorian was accompanied by Mrs. Jane Kusilek at the organ. Musical selections included "More Sunrise," "Sunset," "Trumpet Voluntary," "If Ave Maria," "Prayer of St. Francis," "On This Day," "Beautiful Mother," and "Wedding Song."

Serving as bridesmaids were Mesdames Cheryl Lynn McElvyn and Lori Ann Voss, cousins of the bride. Escorted to the altar by her father, the former Miss Voss chose a long white organza gown featuring an oval Chantilly lace yoke with a stand-up collar edged with sequins, and pearls.

The full-length, shepherdess sleeves were crisscrossed with wide cuffs and a scalloped lace flounce encircled the hemline and formed a chapel train. She wore a pearl and lace camellia headpiece to hold in place a lace-bordered mantilla veil.

Maid of honor Miss Denise Sharp and bridesmaids Janice Wareholl, Diane Becherer, Cindy Davis and Mrs. Laver Taylor wore identical styled gowns in rainbow hues of pink, blue, green, yellow and peach jersey.

The full-length gowns were created with shirred Empire bodices with tiny straps across the shoulders and complemented with matching short capes.

Patricia Voss, a niece of the bride, was dressed in a long frock fashioned with a floral fabric in pastel shades, over pink and made with cap sleeves and a ruffled flounce at the hem. She carried a basket of rose petals.

A nephew of the groom, Tommie Hartnett, served as the ringbearer. Lori Ann Hartnett, a niece of the groom and Michael Voss, the bride's cousin, were dressed identical to the bride and groom. The groom chose his brother, Gregory Larner, as his best man. Ted Domitrovich, Keith Lucas, Ed Settle, Marc Sheffle, Patrick Voss, a brother of the bride, and Dr. Stephen Conway, the groom's brother-in-law, completed the corps of groomsmen and ushers.

A reception for guests was held in the Officers Club of the Granite City Army Installation immediately following the service. Mr. and Mrs. Larner, parents of the groom, hosted a rehearsal dinner in their home. For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Voss appeared in a formal-length aqua chiffon gown designed with a high neckline and worn with a short cape.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Larner, selected a blue knit long gown, enhanced with a bejeweled mandarin collar and a jewel design to define the waistline. Both young people graduated from Granite City North High School. The bride formerly was employed as an admitting clerk at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

The newweds are traveling cross country and will reside in Oceanside, Calif. Out of town guests included Wanda Hillel, Anna Ill, Jane Brown, Indianapolis, Ind.; Mrs. J. McGovern and Agnes O'Connor, Longoote, Ind. and Father Martin Mangah, Taylorville, Ill.

Mothers Club installation

A Mothers Day banquet and installation of officers of the Lincoln Place Mothers Club was held during the weekend at the Holiday Inn, Collinsville.

The corps of officers installed included Mrs. Verna Michel, president; Mrs. Mary Andrea, vice president; Mrs. Rose Grimm, secretary; and Mrs. Virginia Kittel, treasurer.

Guests introduced during the evening were Dorothy Nesper, Mrs. Martine, Vicky Siers, Della Olliges and Agnes Roderick.

The 16 members and guests exchanged gifts after the dinner. The next club meeting will be on June 2.

Hearings to be held; sanitary sewer deliberations will have a profound impact on the future of this community

Hearings will begin this weekend on the Madison County sanitary sewer installation program affecting Chouteau, Nameoki and Venice Townships. They will be among the most important deliberations ever held in this area.

The hearing schedule is as follows, with all three sessions to be held in Courtroom Three at the Madison County Courthouse in Edwardsville.

9 a.m. Saturday, May 15 — Special Service Area No. 2, State Park Place, to be linked with Collinsville facilities.

11 a.m. Saturday, May 15 — Special Service Area No. 3, East Madison, Eagle Park Area and Cloverleaf Addition, to be connected with the Granite City sewer system near 14th Street.

9 a.m. Saturday, May 22 — Special Service Area No. 1, most unincorporated areas of Chouteau, Nameoki and Venice Townships and the Village of Pontoon Beach, with lines to be routed to the Granite City regional primary-secondary sewage treatment plant.

General obligation bond issues proposed are $5 million in Area One, $425,000 in Area Two and $650,000 in Area Three. Assessment levels differ in the three portions as do the tax rate estimates. Chief factors in determining the actual cost will be the cost of sewer installation work done by contractors and the interest rate paid to bond buyers both determined through competitive bidding.

Municipal authorities have indicated the treatment costs will be reasonable, and the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency offers added assurance on this point.

Public reaction so far has been varied. Most property owners want sanitary sewers and have approved easements, while some people oppose sewers with equal fervor. Hearing notices specify that "all interested persons affected by the formation of the Madison County special service area will be given an opportunity to be heard regarding the formation of the boundaries of the special development and may object to the formation of the special service area, the issuance of bonds, and the levy of taxes affecting said area."

It will be appropriate if those favoring and those opposing attend and make known their views. It will be even more constructive if all who speak adhere as much as possible to factual aspects, many assertions in recent weeks, however sincere, appear to be either inapplicable or unverifiable.

Much has been said about cost assumptions but little about the sewer improvements. Some persons have questioned whether specific neighborhoods can afford sewers, a related question might be whether they can afford not to have them.

State federal help of about 75 percent is certain if the installation proceeds based on the current timetable.

Initial local costs of about 25 percent are destined to decrease rapidly as obligations dwindle and generalizations occur. Major new industrial-commercial additions already have been announced, subject to the availability of sewers.

With the sewer drainage problems this region already has, it is not hard to visualize the negative attitude that would be taken by Illinois and federal authorities regarding future home loans and other matters if Quad-City turns their backs on an undertaking of such value and necessity.

A golden opportunity has arisen after long and dedicated planning and efforts; it must be utilized now, or lost.

Miscellany Plant pluckers endanger species

Plant collectors are a strange, determined breed of people.

In the past, they have suffered plague, attacks by mad buffaloes, and malaria to bring such exotic plants as wisteria, forsythia and azaleas to America.

Now, their persistent plucking of rare specimens is forcing some indigenous American plants onto the U. S. endangered species list.

As a result of their plucking, plus other pressures, more than 3,000 of 22,000 native American plant species are endangered, threatened or extinct in the wild.

And 77 rare species, including the giant fawn lily and the Nevada primrose, are listed as "commercially exploited."

Many of the scarce plants are dying out because their habitats are being destroyed—to make way for farms, strip mines, highways and other developments. But plant collectors, private and commercial, are also taking a heavy toll and they are digging up the very species—such as the insect-eating Venus flytrap—that are most imperiled.

Commercial collectors are the worst kind. They sometimes dig up whole acres of cacti in one swoop.

One recently dug up more than 700,000 rattlesnake orchids in Tennessee to feature in the mail-order terrarium he was selling.

But private collectors—like tourists, hikers and the Everglades on orchid-picking tours and picnickers plundering public parks—are also a menace.

While rationalizing that "one small plant will not be missed," a surprisingly large decimation of such rare plants as the ram's head lady's slipper or the leather gape fern.

Once plant predators decide they want a rare specimen, nothing can stop them.

As a result, the sites of obscure plants are guarded by their discoverers almost like state secrets, and in England maps marking the locations of endangered species are kept in a locked safe.

A few states have laws protecting wild plants.

In New York's Catskills it is illegal to pick gold and pink twinflowers. In the South Carolina, plucking the sea otter is verboten because it stabilizes sand dunes, and in North Carolina the Venus flytrap is protected.

Arizona has a "cactus cove" to enforce its plant-picking laws, which provide for both fines and jail sentences.

Most plant pickers who evade the laws are frustrated, in the end, because the specimens they pick do not survive in a new environment.

Some orchids, for example, are so attuned to their habitat that they cannot even be transplanted from one world to another, according to a National Wildlife report.

What can be done to save endangered vulnerable plants?

National Wildlife recommends four courses of action to NWF members:

1. Exercise self-restraint; study the endangered lists and then, if in doubt about varieties, stick to roadside daisies and Queen Anne's lace.

2. Shame the owners of endangered plants dug from the wild into an appeal to reason and conscience.

3. Don't patronize florists or nurserymen who take listed species from the fields.

4. At garden shows, ban display of arrangements that include prohibited species; give preference to seed-grown exhibits.

In addition to these voluntary steps might be taken.

States and the federal government could tighten laws to cut down the taking of rare plants. The U. S. Endangered Species Act of 1973 applies to plants only when interstate commerce is involved.

Also, the government could establish plant preserves, similar to wildlife refuges, where plucking and digging would be prohibited.

A Smithsonian Institution rare plant report recommended this move last year.

In the meantime, according to an expert, some American plants are so rare that they could be made extinct in minutes.

AN ECONOMIST who specializes in energy-cost research has told a Club of Rome symposium at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale that too little is known about the world's energy use and resources to make reasonable predictions about the future energy situation.

We don't know much about it now, and we're not likely to know much about it in the future," said Michael Rieber, research professor in the University of Illinois Center for Advanced Computation.

Speaking during a discussion of use of coal to meet the energy crisis, Rieber told the audience that, in his opinion, "there is no energy shortage and there never has been."

He attributed shortages of gasoline and other petroleum products in the U. S. following the 1973 Arab oil embargo to a "fuel shortage," based on a lack of refinery capacity and energy exportation in this country brought on by low oil prices.

"The question is not why the price of Persian Gulf oil is $10 or $12 a barrel, but why it was ever $1.65," he said.

Coal is one worldwide source of energy that, plentiful, Rieber said, the apparent U. S. shortage of energy is a question of fuel supply versus mine safety and environmental considerations.

"There are supply alternatives for the U. S. and the rest of the world, just as long as the environment is not taken into account," he said. Rieber didn't explain how it could be done.

There will be enough energy for the world's future needs, but it will probably be from different sources than today, and it will be expensive.

"The society of the future—at whatever level—will live differently," he said. "Not necessarily worse; just differently."

Rieber told Club Rome members to task for making dire predictions for this world's energy—especially regarding energy use and availability—without basing the predictions on accurate information (which he says doesn't exist).

"They come perilously close to generating data consistent with (the Club of Rome's) own conclusions," he said.

Also taking part were Sidney Marder, director of the Energy Commission's division of energy, and J. Richard Freeman of the Peabody Coal Co., St. Louis.

Marder traced involvement of the Illinois state government in coal development and research and said he sees coal as an immediate solution to energy problems but not the "ultimate, long-term solution."

He said the key problem with Illinois coal reserves as a solution to energy problems is concern with the environment—mainly stripmining and air quality. This is the main reason for emphasis on research in coal conversion.

"If there weren't problems, we'd just burn coal," Marder said.

The chief problem with coal conversion is that it is expensive—too expensive for either state government or private industry to develop by itself, "and sometimes too expensive for both together," he said.

He described the "Coalcon" coal conversion demonstration plant which will be located near New Athens in St. Clair County and said the great advantage of the plant is that—after the demonstration phase has been completed—other "modules" can be added and the plant can go into commercial production.

Speaking for the coal industry, Freeman said, "over-selling" of nuclear power in the early 1970s, "over-sever" air quality standards and conversion of industry to petroleum fuel have combined to keep coal production low.

He said that in order to meet President Gerald Ford's announced goal of energy self-sufficiency by 1985, coal production must be doubled or tripled by that date. He said this would require more than 2000 new mines, 55,000 trained miners and massive additions of new mining and transportation equipment. He put the total required investment at $21 billion.

Freeman put recoverable coal reserves in Southern Illinois and Kentucky at about 100 billion tons, and said the area is a "natural site" for the combination of available coal and location of major oil and natural gas pipelines which pass through or near the area.

Revenue sharing beneficial

Daily Oklahoman

Although the U. S. Chamber of Commerce has supported the concept of federal revenue sharing with local governments, and is pressing for an extension of the 1972 act, there has apparently been some doubt that the local chambers across the country shared the national group's enthusiasm.

So the national chamber surveyed state and city chambers of commerce and asked them a series of questions about revenue sharing.

By and large, the 185 local chambers responding say that the program has been beneficial and should be extended. They say that the idea is working with relatively few hitches. There have been few complaints, and it has a scandal-free record in its distribution of $25 billion to 39,000 different local governments.

The program has been administered at a cost of one-eighth of one per cent of the total allotted. That means that for every dollar appropriated for revenue sharing, 99.99 cents actually reached the recipient organizations.

Once some of these people want something, almost nothing can stop them

Rising for sunset law concept

By RICHARD L. LESHNER
President,
Chamber of Commerce
of the United States

Whenever national Chamber witnesses troop up to Capitol Hill to suggest trimming federal expenditures, we are sure to get this question from a congressman: "Where would you make the cuts?"

It's a congressman's way of pointing out that making such decisions is difficult. It's also a cop-out, for two reasons. First, the congressman knew he was going to have to face tough decisions when he ran for office—that's what he's there for. Second, it places the burden of proof on the taxpayer, rather than on the tax law.

In other words, your average government agency assumes that its existence is justified by its usefulness. Consequently, we still have with us the Federal Helium Fund, among other relics of a colorful past program—a remarkable and encouraging thing has happened. Suddenly, people from the political left to the political right have realized simultaneously that this is "no way to run a railroad."

According to this new consensus, budget reviews should not be confined to how much or how little to increase last year's appropriation.

Rather, each agency and program should have to justify its right to continue receiving any funds at all, that is, it should have to prove that whatever good it does outweighs what it costs the taxpayer.

This concept is known as "zero-base budgeting"—because the program or agency under review has to start at zero and account for every penny it is requesting.

It is also called a "sunset law" because one method of implementing the system is to provide an automatic termination date for all programs—say, every three or four years. Those that they deserve to be kept going are allowed to fold.

The obvious benefit of such a law is that it has the potential to clear out the deadwood. It's the governmental equivalent of bankruptcy in the private sector.

The National Chamber has pushed for this kind of law at the federal level for a long time. And now there's a bill to create one: S. 2925, the Government Economy and Spending Reform Act of 1976, introduced by Sen. Muskie (D-Me.) and co-sponsored by a bipartisan group.

It proposes establishment of a procedure for zero-base review and evaluation of government programs and activities every four years—to eliminate inactive and overlapping programs and to require new budget authorization for every four years.

We have a few minor suggestions for improvement. But, basically, we believe it's a good bill and is much needed.

The same idea may spread through the states. Colorado already has a sunset law on its books. So does Georgia. And Florida just passed an ingenious variation on the same general theme.

The Florida law, called the Florida Economic Impact Disclosure Act of 1975, requires state agencies to justify their actions, in cost-benefit terms, before taking them.

According to the Wall Street Journal, "The new law requires that the agency issuing a new rule first determine that it has selected the lowest cost method of achieving its purpose, that the cost-benefit ratio has been analyzed, that resources used can be more effectively employed through the public sector than the private sector, and that the

The FORM Pro-marijuana talk should be omitted

To the Editor:

It was related to me through a casual conversation with my child, who is a student at South, that several statements were reported to a class concerning the non-effects of marijuana.

This certain teacher made such statements as "You could not get hooked on marijuana," that "it could not cause brain damage unless you used it to excess" and that "most people on hard drugs did not graduate to them from marijuana."

These statements, probably the teacher may have based his statements on some "pro"-marijuana article, expressing his own conclusions, he said.

Also taking part were Sidney Marder, director of the Energy Commission's division of the substance.

Certainly, in these times—when it is difficult enough to keep teenagers on the right path—the least parents need is for a teacher to speak out positively about a substance, on which the teacher, or anyone else, does not know all of the facts as yet.

Break-up would boost cost of fuel

To the Editor:

The Senate Judiciary Subcommittee on Antitrust Monopoly, by a vote of 4 to 3, ordered reported to the full committee a proposal to break up the 20 largest petroleum companies.

No major company would be able to engage in more than one of the basic phases of the petroleum industry: production, transportation and refining-marketing.

With some exceptions in refining-marketing, those major firms now involved in two, three or four of these operations would be required to divest themselves of all but one.

This is called vertical dismemberment.

While there is some question as to whether the bill will be reported out of the full committee, there is a strong likelihood an attempt will be made to attach the proposal as an amendment to some bill presently before the Senate.

This measure must be considered either as punishment against the oil industry or as the first of several steps to break up all large companies, hastening our way toward a nationalization of industry and socialism.

What would be the consequence if the bill were passed?

Further, it must determine whether the action would improve the open market for employment, and how the costs and benefits will be distributed among various individuals and groups.

In other words, it's the economic equivalent of an environmental impact statement, for a government agency.

If legislation keep coming up with ideal like these, there may be some hope for us after all.

sequences of dismemberment of the petroleum industry?

Next to the consumer, who would go up. The reason for vertical integration in the petroleum industry as well as many other integrated industries is efficiency of operation.

If an integrated industry is fragmented into several companies—if the middle man is legislated back in—if an assured source of supply of product from the well is through the refinery to the service station is not maintained—the consumer will pay.

The nation will become even more dependent upon high priced foreign oil.

A fragmented oil industry could not negotiate as effectively with the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries cartel which has already quadrupled crude oil prices in the last four years.

A host of smaller companies, each with severely limited funds to generate capital, would find it more difficult to undertake the vast expenditures necessary to locate new oil reserves and make safe domestic petroleum energy available to the public.

3. If transportation were spun off, who could finance the billion dollar Alaskan pipeline—the vast network of pipelines existing throughout the country—or the fleets of tankers now used for product transportation?

4. The marketing role of the independent service station dealer would be greatly changed if not destroyed. If petroleum companies were forced to sell off their marketing facilities, how could dealers afford to buy their $100,000-$200,000 station?

It is likely they would be swallowed up by large chain-store operations which may wish to operate through salaried employees.

Brand names would in all likelihood disappear. National credit cards and warranty protection likely would not survive.

Marginal stations would be eliminated, primarily those in rural and low income areas.

The whole marketing system, though, in dependent businessmen acting as jobbers and dealers as we now know it, would be in jeopardy.

The result of dismemberment—an arbitrary fragmentation of the oil industry—would be less efficient operation, increased cost to the consumer and greater dependence upon politically insecure foreign supplies which can be turned off and on at will.

Congress should be doing something to formulate an energy policy that would increase our supply of safe domestic energy, not playing to the political policy of "sock it to Big Bad Oil."

Police were called to a trailer court on Pershing Boulevard, where they found Deborah Ann Bahr, 21, of 2325 Angela Drive, lying on the floor of a mobile home at 2827 Pershing Blvd.

A 19-year-old woman was discovered sitting on the porch of another mobile home, bleeding from the right side of the face.

Both were taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital, where Miss Bahr had sutures taken for a cut to the lower back section of the head, declined to be x-rayed and was released.

The second woman underwent surgery for a 1 1/2 inch stab wound near the upper lip and was admitted.

Miss Bahr was charged with aggravated battery under city ordinances and was released on payment of $50 cash bail. A similar charge is pending against the second woman.

Two Bell employees said while they were investigating the shots after two volleys were heard, four more shots were fired, causing them to duck inside the building and close the door.

At 7:45 p.m. Monday, police arrested Robert W. Abney, 29, of 1303a Twenty-first St., and at 8:40 p.m. arrested Eddie L. Abney, 45, both of 1303 Twenty-first St. Both men were charged with disorderly conduct.

Dog sought to halt shots

A small boy has begun taking a series of painful anti-rabies shots and must continue to do so for another 18 days if the black dog which bit him is not located.

Thomas Nutter will be 3 years old on June 14. He is a preschooler at Logan School and lives with his parents, Army Sgt. and Mrs. Thomas (Karen) Nutter, at the Granite City Army Installation.

The boy was walking home from a playground on the installation property about 8 o'clock Friday evening when he was bitten by the animal on the face and hand. The bite broke the skin and the anti-rabies serum injections were started Monday.

Thomas described the dog as "pretty good size," resembling a German Shepherd. It was mostly black with tan-brown markings on the face and tail.

A security guard at the Army base saw an animal similar in size and color about that time, but said the dog did not resemble a German Shepherd.

Mrs. Nutter reported calling the Granite City humane officer "many" times since the incident and at 1 p.m. Wednesday police offered to help find a humane officer about noon Wednesday.

Anyone knowing the whereabouts of a dog matching the description of the one given is asked to call Mrs. Nutter at 452-7504.

"The injections can be stopped if we can locate the dog," Mrs. Nutter said.

More events mark Hospital Week

A week-long celebration of "National Hospital Week" is continuing at St. Elizabeth Hospital with three events scheduled Friday to mark the annual observance.

Winnie the Pooh will call at the hospital from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Friday and, after visiting with youthful patients, will be available to pose with youngsters or adults who call at the hospital.

Also tomorrow, a luncheon for nurses from offices of area physicians will be served at noon in the Westman Room.

Between 1:30 p.m. and 3 p.m. Friday, a roundup social program for adult volunteers and guests is planned by the hospital staff.

About 250 persons attended a Mass at 5 p.m. Monday outside the hospital, celebrated by Bishop Joseph McNicholas and area clergymen and former hospital chaplains.

Later the same evening, more than 250 attended a special bratwurst supper and program at the VFW Hall. Featured on the program was a playlet dramatizing the arrival of the Sister of Divine Providence in America and specifically to the St. Louis area, 100 years ago.

As part of National Hospital Week festivities, the mother of the first baby born on Mother's Day (Sunday) was presented a layette and flowers by the hospital staff.

The infant honoree is John Alvin Jansen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald (Diane) John Alvin Jansen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald.

Town hall, senior citizen center budgeted for 1977

An appropriation of $615,000 in federal revenue sharing funds is contained in a new 1977 budget of Granite City Township for construction of a new town hall and senior citizens center on the former Central Junior High School site at 25th Street and Delmar Avenue.

The building budget, increased $115,000 over last year's $500,000 budget for the proposed building, is contained in a new overall appropriation of $1,072,537—including the town hall fund—which has been posted for public inspection at the office of City Clerk Robert Stevens in the City Hall. Stevens also is town clerk of Granite City Township.

It is the first instance in which a Granite City township budget has exceeded the $1 million mark.

Of the overall total of $1,072,537, expenditures totaling $450,537 are projected out of the operating accounts for town purposes, general assistance and municipal retirement. This is an increase of $48,985 over a total operating budget of $401,552 for the 1975-76 year that ended Feb. 29.

The budget for the proposed town hall building consists only of revenue sharing funds received from the U. S. government and does not include tax funds. Tax levies are expected, however, for monies spent out of the town fund, general assistance fund and the municipal retirement fund.

The total revenue sharing budget is $622,000, of which $7,500 is appropriated for social services for the aged and poor, and the remainder for the building program.

The budget will remain on public inspection until June 7 when a public hearing will be held in the City Council Chambers on the third floor of the City Hall. The town board, which is made up of City Council members, will act on the budget immediately after the 7 p.m. hearing.

The total budget for town purposes is set at $176,067, up $16,728 from last year's appropriations totaling $159,339. For general assistance, expenditures of $248,850, up $28,250 over last year's budget of $220,600.

For municipal retirement, expenditures of $248,850, up $28,250 over last year's budget of $220,600.

A native of Waterloo, Monica Olszewski is a geography major. She has been active in student programs, including adviser in the New Student Life organization. She also has served on the search committee of the Executive Dean of Student Affairs Committee.

Ralph Collins of East St. Louis is a senior in urban planning and geography. He is a member of the Black Students Association and has participated in various student activities.

Pam Ward ran uncontested, and was elected unanimously as the East St. Louis geographic senator. She is a sophomore.

The budget calls for $24,000 for municipal retirement payments, compared to $20,000 last year.

Nelson Hagnauer, supervisor of Granite City Township, has said design planning for the proposed town hall building will be completed as soon as the question of future revenue sharing allocations is resolved. He said the prospect of additional revenue sharing funds will determine the size of the building. The current revenue sharing program ends Dec. 31 this year, and is expected to be replaced by a new program which may encounter some revision.

'Southern' judge joins federal Court of Appeals in Chicago

U.S. District Judge Harlington Wood Jr., of Springfield, has been approved for elevation to the U.S. 7th Circuit Court of Appeals, filling the vacancy left by Judge John Paul Stevens' elevation to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Wood was appointed to the federal bench of the Southern District of Illinois in July 1972. Granite City, Madison, Venice, Pontoon Beach and Mitchell are part of the Southern District.

Ben Droege of Godfrey has appealed the foreclosure of Country Fairways Corporation, which he headed as president and general manager. He voiced opposition at the confirmation hearing, holding Wood as senior judge responsible for what he alleged were irregularities in the bankruptcy proceedings.

Droege testified that the referee in bankruptcy, a "subordinate" of Wood's, ordered sale of the corporation's $500,000 in assets "without proper and adequate notification" while it was sheltered under Chapter XI reorganization. Droege said liabilities amounted to only $60,000.

Charging "manifest" incompetency, Droege said Wood failed "to execute his judicial duties" and thereby "placed our half-million-dollar corporation in risk of total financial loss."

Sen. Roman Hruska, R-Neb., ranking minority member of the committee, presided and sent Wood's nomination and Droege's complaints to the full committee. At the request of Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., Wood was first given an opportunity to respond.

"I do not believe I ever met Mr. Droege," Wood said. "I don't think he or his counsel tried to contact me or my staff. I have not been involved in it." Wood said he understood the proceeding was on appeal and that he had been advised that Judge Omar Poole had been handling the whole case. Wood said essentially the same thing when he talked with reporters later outside the hearing room.

Droege's complaints were already known to members of the Senate Judiciary Committee because he had written Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., last month, asking to testify in opposition to Wood's nomination.

Percy and Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson, D-Ill., both supported Wood's nomination, presenting short statements for the record.

"In each of the positions he has held," Percy said, "Judge Wood has won the respect of his colleagues for the manner in which he has carried out his responsibilities."

"I have known him personally for many years and am convinced that he has the intellect, the temperament and the integrity demanded of a federal judge, and that he will continue the outstanding tradition of Justice Stevens."

Stevenson said Wood "throughout a lengthy and varied career has served with great distinction" and "is well qualified to serve on the Court of Appeals."

Woman elected by student body

Student Government election returns have been tallied at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. After last week's election, students tallied the ballots for five and a half hours before finishing.

Chosen for the office of student body president was Laura Lee Ricci, Detroit, Mich. Miss Ricci is the first woman to serve as the student body president in the history of SIUE. A senior with a triple concentration in business administration, social work and sociology, she has also kept busy with student activities at SIUE.

William Fielding, East St. Louis, a junior in Human Services, was elected as vice president of the student body. Fielding is a member of the Disabled Students Association and the Black Students Association.

Eddy Washington of East St. Louis was selected as the student member to the SIU Board of Trustees. He is a sophomore, and his major is undecided.

Pam Ward ran uncontested, and was elected unanimously as the East St. Louis geographic senator. She is a sophomore.

Five students were elected to the office of student senator for spring. Teresa Miller is a junior in mass communications and a native of Wood River. Miss Miller is the only one returning to the senate of the five newly elected senators.

John "Greg" Mudge is a native of Edwardsville, and has a triple major in psychology, history and human services. He also is a member of the Student Senate Judicial Committee, the Student Affairs Council and the University Senate.

A native of Waterloo, Monica Olszewski is a geography major. She has been active in student programs, including adviser in the New Student Life organization. She also has served on the search committee of the Executive Dean of Student Affairs Committee.

Ralph Collins of East St. Louis is a senior in urban planning and geography. He is a member of the Black Students Association and has participated in various student activities.

Course emphasizes social role of firms

Not many classes are designed to have students "at each other's throats" during the course of class discussion. But a class at SIUE, entitled The Social Framework of Business (B.A. 345) places corporation executives in the role-playing positions of consumers, stockholders, the government and big business, and the instructor sets them against each other.

John M. Virgo, an associate professor in the department of business administration and economics, teaches the course. His students take it as part of the master of business administration program.

Most of them hold executive positions with large firms or the government and are working toward an MBA degree to advance in their jobs. Most are in favor of big business, and it is not easy for them to take sides against their bread and butter.

Students in this class find that "it is hard to establish a set of ethical codes for businesses to follow," Virgo contends. "Businesses used strictly to maximize profits are going to do so at the expense of the consumer."

"It is not going to make any difference what type of ethical codes you establish if many businesses will not abide by them."

Virgo gave a hypothetical example of how he believes businesses operate. "Good Humor Ice Cream sold some contaminated ice cream to consumers," he said. "When it was returned, they took back the ice cream and donated it to a boys' home."

"If a big corporation wants to do something that is not in the public's interest, it will do it until it gets caught. When it does get caught, the penalties are light compared to the profits it makes," he said, conceding he has a bit of anti-business bias.

"When caught in wrongdoing, some firms deny everything. Then they blame any wrongdoing on a small marginal company in the industry. Third, they try to discredit their critics, as General Motors tried to discredit Ralph Nader."

"Then they hire a public relations man to put out a campaign to modify public opinion. If that does not work and it gets to the point that legislation will be enacted, they try to 'defang' the legislation."

Virgo said, using the "truth in packaging" law as an example. "Next, a fact-finding committee is launched to find out if any improvement really needs to be done. Finally, when nothing else works, they decide to do something 'positive,'" he said.

"Doing something is always the last defense," he contended. "Most people are naive about big business," Virgo continued. "This type of course is emotional because we get into the set of values that the students have."

"If we have a student who is pro business, then it is a soul searching process that he has to go through. The hardest thing they have to decide is what they would do if they were faced with the same sort of circumstances. For example, if their company had an unsafe product, what would they do?"

In the class, discussions revolve around supposedly true cases involving corporations. Emphasis is placed on the large firm in regard to such matters as the essence of responsibility of its management, the relationship of the corporation to the individual, the professional role of the manager, the corporation and the law, and efficient management of the firm's resources in light of social constraints placed upon it.

Virgo explained that one class might be divided into four groups. One group will represent the Kennedy administration. One will represent

U. S. Steel. Another will represent stockholders, and one group will argue for consumers.

"They are forced to argue for positions they may not initially agree with," Virgo said. "This gives them an objective framework to analyze the social responsibility that businesses have."

COLONIAL DRESS was the order of the day at Emerson School last week during a day-long Bicentennial program which featured a colonial-type lunch being prepared here by students, faculty members and parents. The meal included turkey, goose, jams and preserves and homemade bread.

CORN POPPERS Joe DeShon, kneeling at left, and Dave Bennett, right, fifth-grade students at Emerson School, keep their fellow Bicentennial celebrants supplied with popcorn prepared over an open fire.

Students at Emerson participated last week in an all-day program marking the nation's Bicentennial. Most of them wore clothing of the 1776 era.

Firms concerned over air policies

Lobbyists opposed to amendments to the Clean Air Act, pending in the U.S. Senate, gathered at Capitol Hill last week to enlist the support of the two Illinois senators and the state's Congressional delegation.

Organized by the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce, they met with congressmen at breakfast, visited them and their staffs throughout the day, and held an informal reception for congressmen and government officials later at the Capitol Hill Club.

Two of the lobbyists represented the Central Illinois Public Service Co., Springfield. Donald D. Raymer, vice president of operations, and Kenneth L. Andres, manager for public affairs, visited the office of Rep. Paul Findley, R-20th Dist.

"Our sole purpose," Raymer said in an interview, "is to discuss with the representatives, senators and their staffs our concern about amendments to the Clean Air Act. 'We're trying to indicate the effect they will have on people in the area we serve.'"

Opposition centers on proposed House and Senate amendments to the Clean Air Act of 1970 that are intended to protect clean air against any significant deterioration."

Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, proposed an amendment that would postpone a new non-deterioration policy for one year while a National Commission on Air Quality studies economic and energy impacts and considers whether the government has sufficient technical information to implement it.

Raymer said the group that went to Washington from Illinois supports a Moss amendment and has urged the Congressional delegation to back it.

As viewed by the State Chamber, the proposed non-deterioration amendment would bar the location of new industry in selection areas where air is cleaner than present air quality standards. "This legislation," Chamber President Lester W. Brann Jr. has said, "would impact directly on economic growth and jobs, particularly in rural or less-populated areas."

Raymer agrees with Brann's assessment. "We are particularly concerned about this," he said, "since we operate in some areas of Central and Southern Illinois where we don't have dense population."

Raymer believes a one-year moratorium on enactment is needed to assess the potential socio-economic impact of a policy.

Lobbyists were in Washington from Amsted Industries, Commonwealth Edison Co., Continental Can Co., International Harvester Co., Standard Oil Co. (Ind.), R. R. Donnelley & Sons Co., all of Chicago; Caterpillar Tractor Co. and Central Illinois Light Co., both of Peoria.

Clark Oil and Refining Corp., Blue Island; Deere & Co., Moline; GTE Automatic Electric Northlake; Illinois Power Co., Decatur; Olin Corp., East Alton; Outboard Marine Corp., Waukegan; Wyman-Gordon Co., Harvey; Monsanto Co. and Peabody Coal Co., St. Louis; and 3 M Co., St. Paul.

The long-awaited Clean Air amendments would be the first comprehensive review of the 1970 act. This was enacted with the objective of cleaning up the nation's air by the end of the decade.

One of the most heated issues involves standards for protecting the air in regions where it is not yet too polluted. Environmentalists argue for strict controls while industry spokesmen representing utilities, car makers, pollution control manufacturers, oil, coal, steel and chemical companies have lobbied against it.

Among the most vocal opponents is the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Tickets will be sold at the door for $1.50 for adults and $1 for students.

Activity tickets will be accepted and the public is invited to attend.

Simple rules in courts for small claims

Many people fail to try to collect small debts owed them, feeling that the cost of going to court will be more than the debt justifies. But, according to the Illinois State Bar Association, the Small Claims Court is still a good way to overcome this problem.

Set up under rules of the Illinois Supreme Court, the Small Claims Court allows a person to bring a case involving no more than $1,000, exclusive of any costs or interest, for a nominal filing fee, usually not more than $11.

While some people use a lawyer in Small Claims Court, it is not required. On technical legal points, the judge acts as a referee so that neither party is at a disadvantage.

To get a case on the court's docket, the plaintiff pays the filing fee and submits a short, simple complaint, stating the name, address and telephone number of both plaintiff and defendant, and describing the nature and extent of the claim.

The court usually provides a printed form for this purpose. Any written documents that support the claim should be attached to the statement.

Next, a summons to appear in court is served on the defendant. If it is sent by certified mail or served by the sheriff's department, the plaintiff pays a small fee; in some cases, the plaintiff may be able to serve the summons.

The actual hearing, or trial, is conducted in an informal atmosphere, each party being given the opportunity to state his side of the case.

Even if one of the parties is represented by a lawyer, the other party should not be at a disadvantage, since strict rules concerning evidence, objections and testimony are not followed.

In most cases, the judge will render the verdict, unless the plaintiff wishes to pay the cost of a jury.

The ceremony will be presented by the University Ward Ensemble under the direction of Allan McMurray, director of the University Ward Ensemble, with Gerald Fagan, student director.

The program is being followed by the May meeting of the SIU Board of Trustees, the University Center.

University officers have indicated they expect to occupy Classroom Building III on June 15 and Classroom Building II about July 15.

The buildings are connected at the basement level and by a 20x40-foot "bridge" at an enclosed level between the second and third floors of the buildings.

The new buildings will provide space for 30 classrooms, 172 laboratories and 340 offices.

The School of Education will occupy the lower two floors of both four-story buildings; and the School of Business the top two floors.

In addition, space has been reserved for the School of

(It all the good that is done through the church, the Christian community plays the largest part. Still with all the zeal to maintain good works there is a great waste of effort among believers.)

Paul speaks of the ministry of helps in 1st Cor. 12:28. There is a great need to search ourselves the importance of this ministry today. Because salvation is a personal experience, many believe that the only way to good works should be the same. The waste of good works is in the misguided and misdirected efforts. Scott sues EPA to bar outside lawyers; defends his record related to GC Steel

Illinois Attorney General William J. Scott announced Monday he has instructed his General Law Division to immediately sue Richard H. Briceland, director of the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, and Jeffrey Diver, deputy director, to enjoin any "illegal representation of the EPA in pollution enforcement cases."

The lawsuit, filed in Sangamon County Circuit Court, seeks a restraining order and declaratory judgment enjoining Briceland and Diver from altering existing practice by having the EPA prosecute enforcement actions before the Illinois Pollution Control Board without the legal supervision of the attorney general's office.

Scott said the Illinois Constitution and the Attorney General's Act both specify that the attorney general is the law officer of the state, having the duty to institute and prosecute all actions and proceedings on behalf of the state.

In light of these legal provisions, said Scott, Dr. Brice and Diver "clearly may not on their own institute or prosecute actions, but must work through the attorney general's office."

He alleged that Diver disregarded the provisions when, on May 4, he filed five separate actions in the name of the state.

Scott said his suit seeks to enjoin Diver from acting further in these and any future cases and "thereby leaving the validity of such actions open to serious legal question."

Scott said the complaint objects to expenditures of state tax monies in the EPA budget. "These monies were appropriated by the General Assembly," Scott asserted, "to pay the salaries of technical assistants, not to pay the salaries of litigation attorneys."

He said he seeks prompt legal resolution of the matter. "But the real question," said Scott, "is why a lame duck administration after five years of established practice would initiate such a contrary action as attempting to prevent the state's chief legal officer from carrying out his constitutional duty."

The Walker administration is contending that the attorney general has been lax in the field of pollution enforcement. Backers of Scott point to a long list of court actions and say his anti-pollution diligence has been of unprecedented scale and significance.

Discussing aspects of the controversy in which Granite City Steel has been mentioned, Scott said in a statement at Chicago this week, "Illinois has had the most successful program for fighting pollution of any place in the world. Still, the battle to protect our environment is one of the high priorities facing the state."

"Recent false statements and illegal actions by the state EPA director have placed a serious legal cloud over the state environmental enforcement program that must be resolved as quickly as possible. The proper place to resolve this major problem is in the courts."

"There fore, I have instructed the attorney general's general law division to immediately sue the director and his deputy to enjoin illegal representation of the EPA in enforcement cases, which would jeopardize anti-pollution judgments in those cases.

"I am asking the court to issue an emergency declaratory judgment to enforce the Constitution and statutes which place the responsibility for the state's legal decisions with the attorney general — not with the bureaucrats in the state EPA. This issue is a legal one and should be resolved in court."

(1) "My office has never lost a major pollution case, nor have

I ever allowed politics to influence my decision.

"In order to justify his action, the EPA director falsely said that the attorney general's office had delayed filing a suit against Granite City Steel. The correct fact is our office filed and won an anti-pollution suit against Granite City Steel in 1971 in coordination with the EPA and the previous administration.

"Under the Pollution Control Board order in that case, Granite City Steel was required to install millions of dollars in anti-pollution equipment. The company was given a two-year period to comply, after which our office and the EPA worked together to lower the emission levels even more.

"However, on Jan. 30, 1976, we were specifically ordered by the EPA "pursuant to the existing procedures, do not file either complaint without prior approval of the agency's deputy director.

"When our office asked the federal EPA for guidance on any anti-pollution program approved for Granite City Steel, the state EPA wrote our en-environmental lawyers, saying, "The agency is withdrawing any authorization extended to the attorney general's office by the agency to bring an enforcement action on behalf of the agency for the potential violation by Granite City Steel of Rule 203 (d) (6) (B) (iv) (aa)."

A comprehensive agreement between Granite City Steel and the Illinois EPA., described as having the Illinois attorney general's approval, was signed Feb. 23. Goals include further reduction of air pollutants and substantial expansion of manufacturing facilities.

that figure dropped to 69 per cent - an indicator that amateurs are stealing fewer cars and the pros have stepped up their activities.

A spokesman for the National Automobile Theft Bureau (NATB) said that auto thefts are down in the 21 prime cities in the United States.

"That doesn't mean that our problems have been lessened any," said Bob Sattler of NATB. "It means that because of better locking systems the joy rider has given way to the professional. What is surprising to us is that even with all the warnings of the hazards of unlocked cars — people still get out of their vehicle without locking it and in many cases leave their keys in the ignition."

Police records show that 30 to 35 per cent of all stolen cars had the keys left in the ignition.

Environment statement on locks, dams

A final environmental statement covering the pools above Lock and Dam 24 at Clarksville, Mo., Lock and Dam 25 at Winfield, Mo., and Locks and Dam 26 at Alton has been released and distributed by the St. Louis District, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The Corps has provided over 250 copies to local, state and federal agencies, citizens and organizations and marine interests. The document also has been provided to 23 area libraries as study materials.

Covering the operations and maintenance of the navigation pools, the statement discusses the effects that may result from dredging, pool regulation and construction of regulating works for the 300-foot-wide, nine-foot-deep channel.

Alternative measures dealing with a number of proposals from no action through present operations and future considerations are discussed. Consequences of these alternatives on environmental, social and economic effects and engineering feasibility are analyzed in the over-200-page volume.

The statement also contains charts, plates and maps. Letters of comment and references to the work are part of the final study.

Findings in the document were prepared as a cooperative effort of the Corps, the Waterways Experiment Station and a team of staff members from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, SIUE at Carbondale and Colorado State University, the Illinois Natural History Survey and the Missouri Botanical Garden. The Office of Environmental Studies at the Waterways Experiment Station coordinated the study work.

TREATED AT HOSPITAL

Mrs. Betty Lipe, 45, of 3717 Ruth Drive, was treated for pain in the neck and had x-rays taken before being released Monday from St. Elizabeth Hospital. She said the injury resulted from an auto accident occurring earlier that day on Interstate 55.

FREE ORAL CANCER TESTS. Marilyn Weeks of Peoria, a third-year student at the SIUE School of Dental Medicine, checks a patient at the dental school for oral cancer. A screening day, a program that is free and open to the public, will be held at the school's dental clinic in Alton on Wednesday, May 19, from noon to 7 p.m. The test is quick and painless, Miss Weeks said, and early detection of oral cancer can lead to a cure.

Awards for activities, leadership

Twenty-seven student honorees for 1976 have been selected by the Activities Honor Society at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

The society is for students who have shown outstanding dependability, reliability and creativity in various campus activities, according to Tim Tighe, advisor to the AHS.

It is students recognizing their peers because they have shown leadership in student government, University Center board or other activities," he emphasized. "It is a thank you from the entire student body and university for their efforts."

The students were selected from more than 50 candidates by a committee of nine students representing each of the nine student organizations on campus. Tighe explained—either the president of each organization serves or an appointee whom he or she selected.

Students receiving the Activities Honor Society Award this spring include: Richard Goodwin and Kevin E. Kays, both of Alton; Charles E. Austin, Tony Wayne Cummins and Kay M. Dwyer, all of Belleville; Janet L. Rosenberger of Cahokia; Mary Kay Daskake of Caseyville.

Constance Tenna Magoulas and John Hanzable Whitfield, both of Centerville; Brenda J. Rombach of East St. Louis; Margaret L. Cook, Kay Firsching and John Quilliam Walker, all of Edwardsville; James Henry Francis Jr. and Susan Christine Sackell, both of Fairview Heights; James Michael Cathell of Finleyville.

Carol Ann Beal of Glen Carbon; Cynthia Ann Huckleberry, Nona Janssen and Sandra F. Townsen, all of Granite City; Joe E. Johnson of Hartford; Barbara Jean Madison of Madison; Beth M. Rodgers of Mattoon; Margaret Teresa

Murphy of Odell; Monica L. Olazewski and Linda D. Remiger, both of Waterloo; and Gerry Lee Stormer of Wood River.

Youth flees, radio tapeplayer stolen

As Richard Conway, 20, of Warren Ave., Apt. 4, was walking from Hook's Tavern, 2442 Madison Ave., Monday, he saw a youth run from the parking area and down an alley. Upon reaching his car, Conway discovered an eight-track tapeplayer with AM-FM stereo radio, valued at $100, was missing.

The youth was described as five feet, eight inches tall, about 17 years old, short hair and wearing a light blue shirt or jacket.

Oral cancer screening May 19

The key to curing oral cancer—Cancer of the mouth or lips—is through early detection, according to Dr. J. B. Whitten Jr., chairman of the department of pathology at the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville School of Dental Medicine.

A special free screening program to help detect oral cancer and teach people how to examine themselves for the disease will be held at the SIUE dental school Wednesday, May 19, from 12 noon to 7 p.m. in the dental clinic.

Dr. Whitten said oral cancer is much more common in people 35 years of age, "but it is sometimes detected in other groups also."

"People who use snuff or chew tobacco have a higher incidence of oral cancer," Dr. Whitten said. "About 35 percent of the population chews tobacco, especially those who work in factories and cannot smoke on the job."

Dr. Whitten said the dental school will soon have a brochure available to train people for self-examination and early detection. He explained that, just as in cases of breast cancer, early detection is the answer for saving lives.

He said that "nine-tenths" of the cases of oral cancer are easy to detect. Danger signals include: a sore that does not heal in the mouth or on the lips—or a white, red or bluish-black area on the mouth lips. Although there are no precisely known causes for cancer, Dr. Whitten said, there are some tips to help prevent it. Cancer of the mouth or lips is not usually associated with smoking cigarettes but he said avoidance of chewing tobacco, pipe smoking, and temperance or abstinence from alcohol help lessen the odds of developing oral cancer.

"Oral cancer is very easy to detect by a professional," he said. "If someone looks in a person's mouth and thinks something is wrong, the person should see a dentist or doctor immediately."

"Most of the sores they might see in the mouth are not bad at all. But any persistent sore should be checked by a professional," he said.

The actual examination during Oral Cancer Screening Day will be done by SIUE dental students and faculty. The process is simple and painless, according to Dr. Whitten. "We look and feel in the patient's mouth, and if we find something that demands extra study, the person is advised of the steps to take." Screening Day is being co-sponsored by the School of Dental Medicine and the American Cancer Society. Dental student Marilyn Weeks of Peoria, student representative for the Cancer Society at the SIUE dental school, is coordinating the event. Miss Weeks said signs will be situated on the Alton dental campus to help people find parking places and the clinic.
